

SENATE GIVEN REPORT ON FARM BILL

ANOTHER AID PLAN LIKELY TO DRAW FIRE

Commodity Tax of Democratic Party Expected to Come Up in Congress OPPOSITION IS EXPECTED
Hoover Will Be Compelled to Announce Support of Some Relief Plan

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1929 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — President Hoover has killed the export debenture plan.
Had the same tactics been adopted earlier the equalization fee might have been as quickly eliminated too.

It remains now for one other plan to be sponsored by farm organizations before Mr. Hoover's scheme, namely a federal farm board with broad powers to find a solution will go through congress. That plan involves a commodity tax. It was written into the principles of the Democratic national platform in 1928 at Houston but was never specifically brought forward.

The Democrats have been waiting to see the outcome of the fight against the export debenture plan before bringing out one of their own, if indeed they do decide to get back to an alternative program. The commodity tax idea is close to the heart of George N. Peek who feathered the equalization fee. In some respects it resembles the two plans that now have been rejected, namely the debenture certificate and the equalization principle. But it is limited to the specific commodity and the rest of the plan is distributed over the producers and in no way involves a government subsidy.

LIKE TOBACCO TAX
Briefly the commodity tax would be imposed very much like a tobacco tax or any other internal revenue tax. The marketing organizations for the farmers and the federal farm board would be created but the cost of marketing the surplus abroad would be paid by a commodity tax. Mr.
Hoover has declared himself against any scheme that would tax the farmer but the proponents of the commodity tax say it would not be any more of a tax than is now imposed on tobacco and miscellaneous products.

Nobody has as yet offered on behalf of the Democrats any party plan. There are indications that the recent meeting of Democratic leaders in New York together with the decision to let the Democrats in congress act as spokesmen for the farm relief program up to now the export debenture plan has been from Republican ranks. Mr. Hoover has yet to face a confined Democratic and

SEVEN TAX REFUNDS ANNOUNCED BY U. S.

Washington — (P) — Seven tax refunds, the first made under the executive order of President Hoover making public refunds of $20,000 or more were announced by the internal revenue bureau today. The largest refund of $14,635.50 to the estate of William Waldorf Astor, due to a decision in a United States Circuit Court of Appeals in favor of the taxpayer.

STATE THANKED FOR LA FOLLETTE STATUE

Washington, D. C. — (P) — A resolution expressing appreciation to Wisconsin for the gift of a statue of Robert M. La Follette, was adopted by the senate on Monday. The resolution was offered by Robert M. La Follette, Jr., who announced that unveiling of the statue in Statuary hall would take place Thursday afternoon. An address of presentation will be made by Senator Blaine and several others, including Philip La Follette, a son of the late senator.

DOCTORS CALL HIM DEAD—CUBAN RISES TEN HOURS LATER

Santa Clara, Cuba. — (P) — Certified as dead from heart failure, and on the point of being embalmed, Jose Martinez Mejia rose from a ten hour "death" last night.
Mejia became unconscious late Sunday night and efforts to revive him failed. Toward morning, doctors declared his heart had stopped beating. He was removed to an undertaking establishment where, while attendants were preparing the body for embalming, the "dead" man's hand was seen to stir, and almost immediately afterward Mejia rose to his feet as if he had just awakened.

Britten Hits U. S. Disarm Stand Boatswain Asked To Quit In Miami River Episode

Washington — (P) — Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury announced today the resignation of James R. Ingram, a temporary boatswain of the coast guard service, who used a machine gun in trying to stop an alleged rum runner on the Miami river recently, had been requested.
Mr. Lowman, who is in charge of prohibition enforcement, made the announcement after receipt of a report on an investigation into the incident by Commander Jack of the coast guard station at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The assistant secretary's statement said:
"The investigation of the shooting
by picket boat in the Miami river, Florida, on April 13 in apprehending
a rum runner has been completed.
The findings of facts, opinion and recommendation of the investigating board have been examined and opinion rendered that Boatswain (temporary) James R. Ingram used poor judgment in ordering the use of a machine gun in the Miami river, flanked as it is by dwelling, apartment houses, yachts, and houseboats, has been approved. The river at this point is very narrow and the use of fire arms at this particular point is a menace to innocent people."
"Boatswain Ingram has been requested to tender his resignation."
Mr. Lowman also said he was without official advice of the reported stopping and searching of the steam collier T. A. D. Jones, by the cutter Seneca off the New Jersey coast Saturday night. He declared, however, that the coast guard had

Postal Ace Fights Four At Chicago

Attempt to Arrest Robber Suspects May Prove Fatal to Officer

Chicago — (P) — Evan Jackson, an ace among Chicago postal inspectors, and four men he sought for an $18, 000 postoffice robbery fought with guns in a room at the Hawthorne arms hotel early today.

Jackson was shot three times, and one of the men, a black, one of the robber suspects, was slightly wounded and was captured. A woman companion of the four men, Marian Courtney, leaped from a first floor window and was found, painfully hurt, on the alley pavement below.
The other three escaped.

With the help of Morris Stein, in whose room the gun fight took place, Jackson had lured the suspected robbers to the hotel. The postal inspector and a secretary concealed themselves in an adjoining room, taking down the conversation between Stein and the others.

Becoming suddenly suspicious, the four men and the woman started to leave. Jackson was confronted with the necessity of attempting to arrest single-handed. He stepped into Stein's room and ordered the men to surrender. Instead, they drew guns and opened fire.

Jackson, with a reputation in the postal service for daring, tossed a pistol to Stein and told him, to debenture plan has been from Republican ranks. Mr. Hoover has yet
to face a confined Democratic and

TAX OFFICE UNDER GUARD BY COUNTY

Chippewa-co Determined to Stop Removal of Books from Chippewa Falls

Chippewa Falls. — (P) — The income tax office here was under guard of a deputy sheriff today to see to it that an injunction restraining the removal of any of the records or property of the office from Chippewaco is obeyed.

The deputy sheriff was placed on guard upon the arrival of Lawrence Potvin, state tax commission representative, at the local office. The present income tax assessor, Alfred E. Emerson, received notice from the state tax commission, that it had "accepted his resignation" and was sending a man to take his place.
Mr. Emerson, who is a civil service employee of the state, declares he has not resigned and does not intend to resign.

The state tax commission recently ordered the office moved to Eau Claire. The injunction was obtained to prevent this.

In reply to charges that Emerson instigated the injunction proceedings against the tax commission, John Morris, chairman of the Chippewaco board of supervisors, stated today, "Mr. Emerson had nothing whatever to do with the injunction."

He was secured at my request as chairman of the county board by District attorney Rinehard."
"Chippewa-co is directly interested in this matter and if the two tax commissioners who are engineering the removal wanted to do the right thing, why didn't they send us some notice or communication of their intentions? We held our regular meeting in March and their plans were under way then but we have never heard from them in regard to the matter. We only want what is right and it appears we have to go to the courts to secure a showdown."

ILLINOIS LOWER HOUSE FOR VOTE ON DRY LAW

Springfield, Ill. — (P) — Weber-O'- Grady bill to repeal state prohibition enforcement laws passed the Illinois house of representatives this afternoon. It procured the exact number of votes necessary for passage and more. The vote was 77 to 65.
It now goes to the senate and should it be passed there it will be subject first to the governor's approval and then a referendum vote of the people.

STATE SENATE FAVORS MEET ON U. S. LAWS

Asks National Convention to Consider Amendments to Constitution

Madison — (P) — Without debate or roll call, the senate today adopted and forwarded to the assembly a joint resolution asking congress to call a national convention to consider proposed amendments to the constitution.

Although the resolution does not so state, it is intended by its author Ben Gettleman, Milwaukee, as a step toward repeal of the prohibition amendment. The federal constitution provides congress shall call a constitutional convention when so petitioned by 32 states.

According to Gettleman, since the year 1899 approximately 20 states have made such petition with intent to change the constitution in various ways. These petitions are still valid, Gettleman said, and if Wisconsin and nine other states will add their request to those already on file, congress will be compelled to call a convention.

While he is in Washington attending the ceremonies attendant upon unveiling a statue to the elder LaFollette, Gettleman proposes, with Senator John J. Blaine, to determine which states have requested a convention.

POLAKOWSKI BILL KILLED
Senator Walter Polakowski's bill calling for increase in exemptions under the income tax law, was rejected by the upper house. His measure would have increased the exemptions for single persons from $8 to $10; for man and wife from $17.50 to $20; for each dependent it would have raised the exemption from $5 or $4.

Various champions of farm relief were divided in the senate on the question of allowing county boards to increase the license fee for dogs so sheep owners might receive more compensation for animals killed by dogs. A bill containing those provisions was introduced by the senate for more than half an hour debate on the question whether sheep are killed by country dogs or by the more aristocratic licensed dogs from the cities.

The senate rejected the Duncan resolution providing for an interim committee to study the need of consolidating counties and other governmental units.

29 STRIKERS ARE HELD AFTER BATTLE ON STREET

Gastonia, N. C. — (P) — Twenty-nine strikers and sympathizers were under charges today and a number were nursing injuries as a result of a battle between them and policemen which brought the textile mill strike here to a climax yesterday.

Special deputy sheriffs swung pistol butts and blackjacks vigorously to halt an unlicensed parade organized in violation of a recently passed city ordinance prohibiting street demonstrations without a permit.

The twenty-nine persons, including nine women, were arrested on charges ranging from blocking sidewalks to drunkenness.

None was seriously injured in the process of breaking up the parade but a reporter for the Charlotte Observer was knocked unconscious with a pistol butt by a deputy sheriff as he entered the strike zone.

ORGAN PLANT LOSES $10,000 AT SLINGER

Slinger. — (P) — First swept through the Schaefer Pipe Organ factory here Monday, destroying most of the interior and causing a loss in excess of $10,000. Defective wires were blamed for the fire.

Youth Captured While He Tries To Avenge Father

Davenport, Okla. — (P) — "Young Bill" Tilgham, who escaped from the Tennessee penitentiary a month ago to avenge the slaying of his father, Bill Tilgham, famous frontier peace officer, was on his way back to prison today, his quest lost by a scant fifteen minutes.

Young Tilgham, well known here, was arrested by Marvin Roberts, chief of police, a quarter of an hour before Wylie Lynn, a former federal prohibition officer, who shot and killed his father at Cromwell, Okla., five years ago, arrived on a bus. He had heard Wynn was a passenger on the bus and was waiting for him with two guns.

"The man who shot my father was on that stage that arrived a few minutes after you picked me up," he told Chief Roberts. "I thought perhaps I'd get a chance to meet him."

VICTORY FOR BRITISH NAVY MEN, HE SAYS

House Naval Group Head Declares Statement Is Complete Surrender

London. — (P) — It was authoritatively learned today that disarmament proposals advanced at Geneva yesterday by Hugh L. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, will be given immediate closest attention by highest British officials.

Washington — (P) — Ambassador Gibson's declaration at Geneva, of naval limitations was described today by Chairman Britten of the house naval committee, as "a complete surrender" of the principles advanced by American delegates at the last Geneva conference and "another naval victory for British diplomacy."

"British statesmen have persistently refused," he said, "to agree to any plan whereby we might build the type of cruisers best adapted to American usage. When we propose limitations by categories, we are preparing the way for another disastrous conference which may easily be more serious to our national defense than this Washington agreement has turned out to be."

The naval committee chairman said congress never had again approved a treaty which placed the American navy "in a secondary position" and added that any proposition which failed to give serious military value to the many British naval bases was "unfair to other leading powers who do not enjoy their valuable facilities."

5,000 Leave After Levee Is Crushed

14,000 Acres Under in Arkansas Zone — Rain Feared Along Mississippi

Shawnee, Ark. — (P) — More than 5,000 persons in Phillips and Desha counties were homeless today and at least 11,000 acres of rich farming land were inundated, the result of a break in the Laconia Circle levee and high water around the main Mississippi river levee at Knoxville, Tenn.

High water from the White river yesterday forced a gap in the levee more than 200 feet wide. Residents after receiving warnings by telephone and farm bells gathered part of their belongings and hurried to safety. No loss of life was reported.

All livestock was saved.
The crushing waters today had inundated Shawnee, water in some places being nearly 45 feet deep.
There is no levee protection for the White river and the region around it had been under water for several weeks.

The refugees have been housed in box cars and on a string of flat cars belonging to the Missouri Pacific railroad. For several days the railroad has kept a train near Shawnee for such an emergency.

At Knoxville's landing, engineers with a force of 500 laborers today believed they had won their fight to prevent a break in the levee there.
The break in the Laconia Circle levee was not expected to endanger the main levee to which the circle dike joins.

INSURANCE MAN IS NEW TAMMANY HALL CHIEFTAIN

New York. — (P) — John F. Curry, wealthy insurance man who for many years has been a district leader on the east side, today was elected chieftain of Tammany hall, succeeding George W. Olney, resigned.

"HICKMAN II" SENT TO BADGER REFORMATORY

Sheboygan. — (P) — Stanley Golchink, 17-year-old self styled "Hickman II" who was convicted of blackmail and forgery, was sentenced to the reformatory today. The record now is held by Miss Louise Melchiorre of California, 22 hours 3 minutes and 12 seconds. Miss Smith's plane carried enough gasoline for thirty hours under normal flying conditions, a jug of water, a bottle of corn, bottle of black coffee and a plentiful supply of sandwiches.

The letter Golchink sent to Mrs.
Robert Gluever and signed "Hickman II," asked that she place $500 on a bail box opposite the street car depot. Her daughter, Dorothy, was threatened with death unless she complied with the demands made in the letter. Police caught Golchink when he went after the package.

M'NARY GOES EASY IN TALK ON DEBENTURE

Makes Brief Statement on Hoover View and Short Explanation of Plan

BATTLE IS FORESEEN
G. O. P Senate Leaders Expect That Vote Will Be Test of Strength

WASHINGTON — (P) — An actual start on the consideration of farm relief legislation was made by the senate today and shortly after it started, Chairman McNary of its agriculture committee, declared that if congress sent a measure to the White House containing the export debenture plan it would receive a presidential veto.

McNary's report described the operation of the debenture proposal as follows:
"Section 1 provides a mechanism of export debentures which the board may use at its discretion in meeting special situations which the board may find it impossible to meet adequately under the loan stabilization corporate, or other provisions of the act. If, for example, there should be in any year an exceptional surplus of a commodity and if the marketing conditions should make it advisable to invoke the export debenture plan."

"Under the export debenture plan, a bounty may be granted upon exports of raw agricultural commodities or their food products. The bounty is payable in a form of currency denominated export debentures.
The amount of the bounty may payable upon the export of an agricultural commodity is one-half the amount of the import duty on such a commodity. In the case of exports of food products, the bounty payable is proportionate to the amount of raw commodity consumed in the manufacture of the product. Debentures are legally tenderable at their face amount in payment of import duties."

"The cost to the government is the amount disbursed as the export bounty through the issuance of export debentures. Except insofar as exporters of debenturable commodities are also importers, the negotiable debenture certificates necessary to induce exporters to use them in preference to cash in the payment of import duties. For this reason the domestic market for the commodity would be influenced by somewhat less than the full amount of the debenture."

Senator McNary said that with the exception of the export debenture plan, the bill he reported "is based largely on the plan advanced by the former secretary of agriculture, Mr.
Jardine, and embodied in Senate Bill 4602 of the last session of congress."

Republican leaders in the senate have decided to make the vote on the export debenture plan a test of administrative strength in that branch of congress.

W. G. T. U. TO FIGHT TO RETAIN BADGER DRY LAW

Chicago. — (P) — The women's Christian Temperance Union announced today that it will campaign to restore the Wisconsin prohibition law if it is repealed by the state legislature at the present session.

The official announcement pointed out that there had been an "amazing increase in dry strength in the state" in the recent referendum. The figures show, it stated, that 330,337 wet and 196,402 dry votes were cast — a gain of 20,000 dry votes over the referendum of 1926.

The announcement noted also that 31 counties voted dry this year compared to 18 in 1926, and that more than half the wet vote came from nine counties.

Lawrence College Honors Descendants Of Founder

BISHOP TALKS TO STUDENTS AT EXERCISES

Bishop William Lawrence, Son of College Founder, Guest in City

Lawrence college student body and townspeople Tuesday morning met Bishop William Lawrence, son of the founder of the college.

Bishop Lawrence delivered an address at student convocation at the chapel at 10 o'clock. He arrived in the city early in the morning on a special car over the Northwestern railroad, accompanied by his son, Rev. William Appleton Lawrence, and was a guest of college officials during the day.

The visit is of especial historic significance to both the college and city since it is the first time that any member of either the Appleton or Lawrence families, who are directly responsible for the found and growth of the city and college, has ever come here.

Prior to the Bishop's address, the faculty of the college and conservatory in academic regalia marched in to the chapel. Dr. Henry M. Wriston introduced the speaker and pointed out that the life spans of the Bishop and that of the college are about equal.

COMMENTS PERSONALITY

"I am a fan for personality in the individual," said Bishop Lawrence. "It is time that the mechanical conception of life gives way to the spiritual for there is too much standardization. The strength of education is in thought and if thought is standardized education is through. The strength of New England has been due to individualism and is evidenced by the fact that Emerson and other men have emphasized the spiritual individualism of the people."

"Let the colleges keep their own traditions, life, vision, and thought." "Then let us follow truth whether we do it by fundamentalism or Christianity. If the colleges and universities of this country continue to turn out men and women, clear-eyed, strong of faith, and seekers of truth, the question of standardization and individualism will soon be settled. I have confidence that in the end the supreme figure will be Christ, who is the truth."

In an informal way the Bishop expressed his gratification at being in Appleton and visiting the college which his father had founded and had hoped at some time to visit.

"Here we find ourselves in an eastern spot," said Bishop Lawrence, "when I see your campus, that picturesque and real beauty of a college located in the midst of a town with its influence extending to all parts."

He was interested to find that Lawrence had begun extending its campus across the river so that one day the river would be the center of the college. He pointed out the fact that Harvard university at Cambridge, has done the same thing so that 50 years hence the river will be the center of its campus.

FATHER GAVE $10,000

"My father gave $10,000 toward the founding of nothing as ambitious as a university or a college but what he intended to be a replica of a New England Academy. The institution thus founded took the name of a university at first to gain recognition in the wilderness. It was established not for the children already here who would appreciate it but rather as a vision of faith and he always took a great deal of interest in its development."

Bishop Lawrence then spoke of the conditions under which he was brought up. He lived in Boston and knew many great men, among them Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, who married into the Appleton family; Charles Sumner, who when Lincoln was up for reelection said that he would rather have a real man for president; James Russell Lowell, whom he described as a delightful gentleman and John Brown, leader of the historic raid at Harper's Ferry.

Bishop Lawrence concluded by urging college students to keep free from standardization, a thing which is playing such a leading role in every walk of life today.

Following the speech by the Bishop, the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa, was conferred upon his son, the Reverend William Appleton Lawrence.

Bishop Lawrence is bishop of the Massachusetts diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church and the author of several books. Among them are the "Life of Amos A. Lawrence," "Memories of a Happy Life," "The American Cathedral," "Visions and Service," and the "Life of Roger Wolcott, Governor of Massachusetts."

Grandson Of Lawrence Is Given Degree

In a ceremony which was a fitting feature of the first visit the founder's son and grandson have made to the college which bears their name, the degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa, was conferred upon William Appleton Lawrence at student convocation at Lawrence college Tuesday morning. President Henry M. Wriston was assisted in the ceremony by Bishop William Lawrence, son of the founder and father of the one receiving the honorary degree.

In presenting the degree to Rev. and Dr. Wriston said: "William Appleton Lawrence, grandson of the founder of the college, your name, which unites so happily the names of town and college, is one which we are glad to honor; but it is in your own right, because of the distinction you have won as a preacher of the word of God, a minister to the spiritual needs of your people and a religious administrator of unusual power, that by virtue of the power vested in me by the board of trustees of Lawrence college, I now confer upon you the degree of doctor of divinity, honoris causa, and admit you to all its rights and privileges."

The Reverend William Lawrence is rector of Rhode Island's largest Episcopal church, the Grace church of Providence. The historical significance of this morning's ceremony gains added interest from the fact that his name carries the two family names which the city of Appleton and Lawrence college have borne from the date of their beginning.

Appleton was named in honor of Samuel Appleton of Boston, whose family later married into the Lawrence line, and Lawrence college was named in honor of its founder and original donor, Amos A. Lawrence of Boston. It was the original gift made by Amos Lawrence to the Methodist conference in 1846 which made possible the foundation of Lawrence institute in 1847, a thing which led to the growth of the city of Appleton.

Until today no members of either family had visited the city or college.

Mr. Moody traced development of transportation in Africa and told of the changing conditions since white people advanced civilization, through schools and other forms of education.

"Diamond stealing in the African diamond fields is still going on, although hundreds of methods have been employed to stop it," Mr. Moody said. "Natives will go through any amount of physical torture, even to cutting slits in their bodies and hiding diamonds in them when they are sent into the mines for three week periods."

Mayor Rule Issues Proclamation Asking Citizens to Clean Up Premises

Spring cleanup week in Appleton will be observed during the week beginning April 29, according to a proclamation issued Monday by Mayor Albert C. Rule.

The proclamation follows:
"That, whereas the National Clean Up and Paint Up campaign has resulted in many advantages to community life throughout the United States,
"In safeguarding health,
"In promoting thrift,
"In furthering fire prevention,
"In stimulating civic pride; and
"In making the home and city beautiful,
"Now, therefore, be it known that plans have been perfected for a thorough Clean Up and Paint Up campaign in Appleton, beginning Monday, April 29. This date to mark the opening of a real campaign of persistent and constructive effort in cleaning up and keeping it up. In this worthy movement of cleaning, painting, planting, repairing and general rehabilitation and beautification we urge each citizen to do his or her best part to make our community clean, healthy, thrifty, safe and beautiful.

Signed: ALBERT C. RULE, Mayor.
Plans for the cleanup probably will be similar to those of other years. Citizens will clean up their homes and grounds and place all rubbish in containers in front of residences. Beginning the first day of the week city trucks will pass over certain streets and pick up the rubbish which has been prepared for them. Further details of the plan for collecting rubbish will be announced by Robert Hackworth, street commissioner, later in the week.

FIREMEN WON'T GO TO FIREMANSHIP SCHOOL

It is not likely that any representatives of the fire department will attend the short course in firemanship to be held at Madison next June under auspices of the university extension division. The school will last four days, starting June 25. This date is during the vacation period of the local firemen, and it would be difficult to spare any firemen at that time, according to George P. McGilgan, fire chief.

ROAD HEAD TO ASK FOR WIDENING OF BRIDGE

A proposal to widen the Gehring bridge on County Trunk S about a half mile south of Murphy's Corner is to be placed before the county highway committee at its next meeting by Frank Appleton, highway commissioner. The bridge now is about 16 feet wide and Mr. Appleton says that when two vehicles meet on the structure there is danger of collision. He will propose that the bridge be widened at least six or eight feet.

Relatives in Congress

Congressional relations are getting shaky. For here you see Representative Charles A. Eaton, left of New Jersey, taking the hand of his nephew, Representative William R. Eaton of Colorado, to welcome him to the House before the Seventy-First Congress met in extraordinary session. They're the first uncle and nephew team ever to sit in congress. And if they get into a hot debate on the floor, it'll have to be listed as a family row.

If You Can't Find Your Pup, Ask The Dog Catcher

If your pet dog has disappeared and you are aware he did not have a license on his collar, the chances are he is in the dog pound at the city barns with chances of being executed within 72 hours if not called for and identified.

In other words the dog catcher recently appointed by Mayor A. C. Rule began his duties Monday morning and is picking up all stray pups that are unlicensed. Beginning May 1 he will pick up all dogs that are not tied up or in the company of their owners, as provided by city ordinance.

The dog catcher is Harry Van Heuklon, 820 Brewster-st. His telephone number is 3054-J.

All dogs in the city should be licensed by this time, according to Mayor Rule, and the dog catcher has instructions to pick up and after 72 hours kill unlicensed canines. After May 1, all dogs running at large, whether licensed or unlicensed, will be picked up. Dogs which will not wear collars with licenses attached should be outfitted with harnesses bearing the license, the mayor said.

Mr. Wort pointed out that remedies for traffic problems may be worked out by conferring with the traffic department of the chamber of commerce. Both members and non-members of the chamber traffic department are at liberty to seek information, Mr. Wort said. Many of the wasteful practices and their remedies were discussed by the traffic school sponsored by the chamber during the winter, he said.

Failure to take advantage of package car service on less than carload shipments, resulting in delay and unnecessary taxing.

Using cheap shipping containers, and permitting illegible bills of lading and shipping orders.

WARNS OF WASTFUL SHIPPING PRACTICES

Chamber of Commerce Department Can Help Solve Traffic Troubles

Common and wasteful traffic and shipping practices could be eliminated if certain precautions are observed, according to Roy G. Wort, traffic manager of Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Wort said recently that a survey of industrial traffic, conducted by the transportation division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, has revealed that the following wasteful traffic and shipping practices are most common.

Using shipping containers which do not comply with the specification shown in the classification.

Failure to pack so as to procure the lowest rating.

Misdescribing shipments in the bill of lading, and using estimated instead of actual weights.

Forwarding shipments via circuitous routes at the same or higher rates than apply via shorter or more direct routes.

Failure to take advantage of package car service on less than carload shipments, resulting in delay and unnecessary taxing.

The organization is splendid, as is the cooperation between students and teachers and I find that there just isn't any discipline problem. In view of the fact that the pupils came from so many different institutions I think the progress made in welding them into a single family is remarkable."

"FLU" VICTIM BUILT UP BY NEW KONJOLA

Weakened, Rundown System Strengthened and Invigorated; Stomach Trouble Banished, Too

What a glorious thing it would be for all who suffer and who would be all again, to know of the many amazing accomplishments of this new and different medicine, Konjola, over the most stubborn and chronic cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Surprising as it may seem, this super-medicine is at the very peak of its powers in those obstinate cases that have defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments tried. If you believe your case hopeless, if all remedies have failed to benefit you, then call on the Konjola Man, who is at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., this city, and have him explain the merits of Konjola to you. He will tell you of achievements, not promises; of results, not claims. This man has been sent to Appleton not, primarily, to sell Konjola, but to point the road to health to all who are ill. How Konjola has benefited people is most graphically shown by the happy endorsement of Mr. William H. Matthews, 129 Seventeenth Avenue, South, who recently made the following statement:

"It had been many years since I knew what it was to enjoy glorious health, but it did not take Konjola a long time to end my ailments and make life worth living again. Right after the World War, during the influenza epidemic, I contracted the flu. I never fully recovered for my entire system was left in a rundown and disordered condition. My stomach was affected most of all. My blood pressure was often way above normal. Everything I ate caused gas and extreme bloating. I was constipated all the time and was subject to severe pains in the back of my head. These ailments bothered me so long that I began to think there was nothing that would relieve me.

"Medicine and treatments were of no avail, so I did not have a great deal of faith in Konjola, when it was first recommended. However, I could not deny but what it must have merit for many people were saying the most amazing things about its accomplishments. Finally I decided to give it a trial. That was the wisest decision I could have made. It went right to work! I could almost feel it. Before I hardly knew what was happening it did away with all of my troubles. I do not contract colds so easily and am stronger in every way. Stomach trouble is a thing of the past. Konjola has been a wonderful tonic and body builder for me. I can readily understand why it is called the master medicine—it has been a blessing to me."

Day by day Konjola adds to its fame and friends. Konjola is a medicine that might have been compounded by Nature—for it works with Nature in restoring a more normal, healthy action to the important functional organs of the body. It is said that no sufferer can afford not to give it a trial, Konjola merely asks the chance to make you well.

The Konjola Man is at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton, where he is daily meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine. Five samples given.

KOHLER SENDS HIS 1ST VETO MESSAGE

Fails to Approve Bill on Dissolution of Drainage Districts

Madison—(P)—Gov. Walter J. Kohler in his first veto message to the legislature notified the senate today that he was returning without his approval a bill allowing dissolution of drainage districts whenever more than half the lands in such district have been sold by the county for taxes.

The present law provides that drainage districts may be dissolved when their debts are paid or sufficient funds for that purpose are on hand. Gov. Kohler considered the lack of provisions for paying outstanding bonds as unwise.

"A dissolution under such circumstances might seriously prejudice the rights of innocent creditors. For instance, in a district in which 51 per cent of the lands have been sold by the county for taxes, the remaining 49 per cent may still be subject to further assessments, up to the amount of unpaid bonds may resort to the courts to compel such additional assessments," the governor's veto message said, referring to the supreme court decision in the Dancy drainage district case.

"If the district be dissolved as permitted by the present bill, this remedy might be materially impaired. The bill contains no safeguard against such a contingency and is unfair to those who have in good faith devoted their funds to the promotion of drainage projects. I cannot approve the bill in its present form."

ample authority under the law to stop American vessels anywhere on the seas.

JONES ORDERS PROTEST

New Haven—(P)—T. A. D. Jones, former head football coach at Yale and president of a coal company, authorized his attorney to protest the firing on one of his colliers by the coast guard.

Captain William J. Keating of Beacon, N. Y., master of the collier, T. A. D. Jones, reported to his officers that the Seneca fired several shots across the bow of his ship 50 miles off the Jersey coast Saturday night, then sent a boarding party aboard the collier.

Captain Keating, who served in the navy in the World war, said there had been no warning other than the shrieking of the cutter's siren before the shells came hurtling across the collier. One of them, he said, narrowly missed Third Mate Robert Clark, who was on the bridge.

When T. A. D. Jones learned of the firing, he said, he immediately sent an ensign came aboard and subjected him and his officers to a series of indignities before they departed, warning him not to leave the spot until the cutter was out of sight.

After receiving the captain's report and questioning members of the crew, Mr. Jones placed the matter in the hands of J. Frederick Baker, an attorney, with instructions to file a formal complaint and protest with the secretary of the treasury. Mr. Jones said he would spare "no expense or trouble" to get satisfaction.

The incident took place, Captain Keating said, while his vessel was 100 miles southeast of Montauk point on Her way from Norfolk, Va., to this port.

FINDS CHEMICAL WARDS OFF PLANT DISEASE

Washington—(P)—The discovery that a definite chemical material is responsible for resistance of plants to disease was announced before the National Academy of Science today by three scientists from the University of Wisconsin. This new knowledge may open the way for a different mode of battle on plant disease.

The three, J. C. Walker, K. P. Ling and H. R. Angell, said that they found in a series of experiments with onions that a substance, called protocatechuic acid, was formed to ward off attacks of a smudge fungus.

The acid was present only in the colored scales of the onions and white onions easily fall prey to the ravages of the parasite.

NAVAL DISARMAMENT DISCUSSED BY BUSH

U. of W. Speaker Says Proposal Invokes International Peace

Madison—(P)—Two different points of view regarding the preservation of international peace are reflected in the Anglo-American dispute over naval disarmament, Prof. C. R. Bush, of the University of Wisconsin, declared in a radio address from station WIIA.

"War between the United States and Great Britain is thinkable only in the event of another continental war in which England will be engaged," Prof. Bush said. "Few people realize how close we were to war with England in 1915 and 1916. Never again will the United States permit Great Britain's blockade to interfere with its shipping in time of war."

"This possibility, however, would not arise if the United States were a member of the League of Nations and if the next general war were declared a public war under Article 16 and 10 of the League covenant. Since, however, any more states has no obligations under the covenant, Great Britain fears the United States would, in event of a public war, disregard the League sanction and proceed to trade with the outlawed enemy nation."

The Capper resolution now before the United States senate have for their purpose the remedying of this situation and their passage would go a long way toward modifying the present British naval attitude, Prof. Bush said.

"It is apparent," he said, "that while Great Britain is thinking in terms of a public war, the United States is thinking in terms of a private war. The United States government, apparently does not trust to European nations to declare a righteous public war and, therefore, the British government proposes to distrust the Americans to refrain with the outlawed enemy in case of public war."

ANOTHER AID PLAN WILL DRAW FIRE

that until all the various plans run the gauntlet of political and economic gunfire there will be no chance for the administration plan which seeks to set up the machinery and to place the responsibility for financing a practical plan on the farm board itself.

Mr. Hoover's method of analyzing the export debenture plan and bringing to bear the artillery of three cabinet officers occasioned much comment today on Capitol Hill. Whatever doubts may have been entertained there as to president's firmness in dealing with the legislative body were dispelled. He does not propose to wait till an opposition program gets momentum and widespread support before announcing his criticism. Although the president did not want to press his own plan on congress and to his legislative committees, he did not promise to withhold comment on plans that did not suit him.

Thus he will be compelled in the end to announce his support of the plan he does want and will have to bring to bear the whole pressure of administration strength to secure its adoption.

The earlier policy of keeping hands off and letting congress explore the subject was merely one of strategy and not representative of a determination to keep out of the fight. It was interpreted at the time as an abandonment of leadership but it merely meant a postponement of the administration's activity in behalf of a particular program until the opposition had brought forwards its schemes. It was a plan to draw the opposition fire and this probably will be continued for a little while longer in the hope ultimately of falling a substantial majority for the plan that is sponsored by the president. It also will give many members of congress the opportunity to vote for some form of farm relief after they have expressed themselves with a record vote on other plans.

In the past sessions of congress the fight against the equalization fee was so conspicuous that no real effort was made by some of its disappointed supporters to get behind anything else and a whole congress held office for two years without any farm relief legislation being adopted. The extra session means that something will be done but not until the various plans and schemes are all disposed of and the general principle of letting the new farm board have the responsibility of a delegates task is accepted—which is more or less the way congress hitherto has disposed of a technical economic question of an administrative character.

Wisconsin Weather

Probably showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler Wednesday in north-west portion.

General Weather

The "high" over the central states has remained practically stationary during the past 24 hours, bringing fair weather to all sections east of the Mississippi river. A trough of low pressure extending from Utah to northern Minnesota has caused light scattered showers in the northern states. This is being followed by a "high" in the far northwest, which will probably bring cooler weather to this section late tomorrow.

5,000 DRIVEN OUT BY BREAK IN DIKE

levees might withstand the highest waters in 75 years. Rain today, in the opinion of veteran observers, would mean that every levee in this region, from Jackson, Iowa, to Louisiana, Mo., would be in imminent danger.

A rise of another foot here would probably send the river through or over all the dikes in this vicinity, it was predicted. The water reached 21.5 feet on the Quincy gauge at midnight. South Quincy has night feed the most serious situation, since the high water began in March. A hole developed in the levee and workmen were kept all night to prevent a break. It is estimated that there are approximately a million dollars worth of homes and improved farm buildings in that district, which is one of the most fertile in the endangered section. National guardsmen remained on patrol duty there.

Concern was still felt today for the Gregory district, north of Canton, Mo., which was partly flooded Sunday night.

The present flood is the most menacing that has swept this section in three-quarters of a century. Not since 1851, when the great flood of that year sent the river to 22.5 feet, has the level risen 50 high or remained high for so long.

Army Curator Leaves His Body To Promote Science

Washington—(P)—Because he desired that his labors in the medical field should not end with his death, the body of Dr. Daniel Smith Lamb, veteran curator of the Army Medical museum, was subjected to an autopsy today under the direction of his friend, Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of anthropology of the National museum.

Dr. Lamb's instructions for the post mortem, which he hoped would reveal new secrets to his profession, suggested that Dr. Hrdlicka perform the autopsy, but the noted anthropologist refused because "Dr. Lamb was too dear to me." So Major G. R. Callender of the army medical corps operated.

Dr. Lamb had performed nearly 1,500 autopsies during his life time. Including those upon President Garfield and his assassin, Gaitano, and he left minute instructions to guide the dissection of his own body.

"I, Daniel Smith Lamb," he wrote, "object to burial or incineration and had rather after my death, and if practicable before any embalming is done, that an autopsy be made upon my body by some competent person, who will remove the brain and such other organs as it may be desirable to preserve."

He then prescribed the formula in which he thought his brain could be best preserved, directed that it be added to the Wilder collection at Cornell university, and carefully annotated facts of his life which he believed might be helpful, including a sore throat in childhood, a fall on his head at twelve and six cases of pneumonia, the last of which proved fatal.

"I have been fond of music, reading and literary work," he concluded. "Poor mathematics. Not much given to sports. Have not used tobacco, alcoholic liquors or narcotics."

GET WARNING ON WOMAN SWINDLER

Postal Officials Asked to Watch for Elizabeth Murray, Wanted in Texas

Warning was received at the Appleton postoffice this week to watch for Elizabeth Murray, who is wanted in Texas on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

The scheme used by the Murray woman is for her to appear in a city and give a lecture, usually under the auspices of some woman's organization, on the future of woman in business and literature. She claims to be an organizer and head of the following organizations or societies with headquarters in Washington, D. C.: Woman's History Foundation, Inc.; International Woman's Organization; The Writers and Artists' Colony; The Universal History of Woman and International History Foundation.

In lecture she tells of the alleged organizations mentioned above. While in the city she attempts to get as much publicity as possible through the press and gets the names of the prominent women of the city. After she leaves she writes to some of these women, stating that there is an opening for two or three new members in some one of the organizations. She promises to get a story written about the Charges of failing to stop for an arterial at the corner of College-ave and Drew-sts were dismissed against Norbert Van Boxtel, Little Chute, by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday afternoon when Van Boxtel insisted he did stop for the arterial. prospective member and have it published in the "American Magazine," "Ladies Home Journal" or some other magazine of equal merit. The membership fee is $1,000, and in making the representations with reference of her organization, she uses letterhead which bears the names of various prominent people, including United States Senators, Governors, Society Leaders, Writers and Foreign Princesses. These people are listed as life members and she leads the prospective member to believe that she is joining an exclusive society or organization.

Elizabeth Murray is about 45 years of age, 5 feet 1 inches in height and weighs about 115 pounds. She is well educated and is a world traveler. Her name appears in the 1926-27 edition of "Who's Who." She will probably travel with considerable baggage and stop at the best hotel. She sometimes gives worthless checks to hotels and in establishing credit or getting checks cashed she usually displays literature of some one of the above mentioned organizations.

FINANCIAL WARNING

A timely warning regarding the present financial situation in this country has been given by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, a recognized authority. In the past, high interest rates have come at times of general inflation, when business activity of all kinds was expanded to boom dimensions. Commodity prices were high. There is no general inflation now. Commodity prices have changed little in six years. Only stock prices have boomed. The vast loans whose issue has raised interest rates and made credit scarce have been made on inflated stocks.

Nearly all the banks belonging to the Federal Reserve, Ayres says, have been borrowing from the parent system to make these loans. The loans of member banks on securities have increased in the past year seven times as much as have their loans of all other sorts combined.

"Our reserve system is trying the experiment of enabling member banks to reloan borrowed reserve funds at a profit during a period of prolonged and increasing inflation. Many other central banking systems have tried this experiment, and it is doubtful if a record can be found of it ever having been done without resulting in ultimate disaster."

A fundamental principle of central banking, he insists, is being violated. When some member banks thus borrow and lend, others are driven to do it by competition. Thus the central bank departs from its true function of "a credit reserve" and becomes an instrument of inflation.

STEAM FOR AIRCRAFT

There is continued talk of steam engines for aircraft. A new dirigible has one of novel design. Lawrence LePage, engineer for Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., believes this type of engine will soon appear among airplane power plants. It is "the only engine that can be operated with 100 per cent efficiency," he says.

The old objection of weight and slowness seem to hold no more. Steam engines are said to have been devised as light per horsepower as gas engines. They have some obvious advantages which gas engines lack—flexibility, safety and ability to burn almost any kind of fuel.

And if we start running airplanes on steam, why not automobiles? So the engine supposedly superseded for most purposes by electric motors and internal combustion engines is not yet through. Steam may prove itself a more wonderful servant of man than ever. We have merely not known before how to realize its full value.

SLOW DISARMING

The "preparatory disarmament commission," sitting in Geneva in another attempt to line up some kind of peace program for practical action by the powers, turns down the Russian Soviet plan as too drastic. It is all right to be idealistic, the delegates think, but not so radically idealistic. Disarmament must come by slow degrees, not all at once.

Human nature being what it is, and the armament industry having the power it has, and statesmanship being so notoriously slow-moving, this position is logical enough. Governments can be sudden and drastic in starting wars or constructing armament. They cannot apply the same energy and decisiveness in behalf of peace.

Thus peace, like British freedom in Tennyson's poem, may be expected to come by the process of "broadening slowly down from precedent to precedent."

A man or a nation big enough could destroy armament as Napoleon destroyed dynasties. But there is no statesman or government existing big enough for that at present.

GET AT THE FACTS

It was to be expected that the Canadian government would make some protest to the United States government over the sinking of the rum-runner, "I'm Alone," if for no other purpose than to ascertain the facts and clarify the rules which should govern such a case. As for the facts, the chief point at issue is whether the Canadian vessel was within the 12 mile line when the pursuit began. That point may never be accurately determined.

If it should be established that the vessel when hailed was outside of the agreed limit, on the high seas, it would be plainly up to the United States government to disavow the act and offer reparation. We have often asserted the freedom of the seas against Great Britain, in defense of our own merchantmen. We have doubtless have occasion to assert it again hereafter. We cannot afford to refuse to others rights we would claim for ourselves in a similar case.

The fact that the vessel in this instance was seeking to thwart our laws is aside from the point. The question is merely whether the "I'm Alone" was breaking any law when hailed and pursued. We have claimed immunity more than once for our own smuggling vessels, in somewhat similar cases.

It does not seem to be clearly agreed whether, by the treaty of 1924 with Great Britain for cooperation against rum-smuggling, we have the right to pursue a smuggler beyond the 12 mile limit, or whether a second-craft has a right to take up the pursuit, and whether, even if these acts were legal, such a sinking was justifiable. It will be well for the sake of future relations with Canada, as well as proper control of liquor smuggling, to thresh these things out in a spirit of fairness and candor.

AIRPORT ARCHITECTURE

A feature of the third annual international Architectural and Allied Arts exposition which was held recently in New York city was the display of airport architecture and waterfront landing platforms. The exposition this year contained more than 5,000 selected exhibits, illustrating the design, construction, equipment, exterior and interior adornment of homes and buildings, and the development of new and artistic articles of utility, as well as plans for subdivisions, airports and cities.

There were gold and silver medals and other awards for excellence in various divisions—public buildings, domestic architecture, sculpture, landscape architecture and so on. There were more than 15,000 persons present on the opening night.

Here is much evidence of the present interest in a right combination of beauty and utility in our cities, our office and public buildings, and our homes. New needs and new materials have brought about new forms and methods in all kinds of building. Sometimes it takes courage to try the new forms, but America is coming right along in this. The day seems to be about over when massive ugliness is accepted as either fine or necessary.

TALKIE AND STAGE

These are the days when every one with any sort of opinion at all is speaking his or her mind about the talkies and their influence on the legitimate stage as well as on the movie. One interesting comment comes from Al Woods, prominent New York theatrical producer.

"It is true," he said in a recent interview, "that 70 per cent of the actors from the legitimate stage have been signed up by the talkie people. It will react upon the stage, but I think we will be able to fill the gap with new talent. There will be a vogue of talkies for a year or more, and after that you will find all the actors back on the legitimate stage again."

"The reason for this is that there is a monotony about a talkie which wears down a man after two or three hours of dialogue. What the talkies, or sound, pictures will eventually come to is that there will be spoken parts for the important climaxes, while the remainder of the pictures will be silent."

Points of view differ as the speaker is more interested in one or the other form of dramatic art. Yet all seem to agree that the legitimate stage and the movie, the latter greatly improved with sound and speech, will both survive.

The Chinese and Japanese use the same written language, but the spoken languages are quite different.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

The girl reporter was asked the other day how long Harold the Seer had worked on his present job.

"Oh, about half a day," she replied. "It must be much longer than that," her inquisitor insisted. "I know he's been on the job much longer than that."

"Well, he's been on the payroll about four years," the girl reported, "but I thought you asked how long he'd worked."

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

The policeman entered the restaurant and with great dignity announced to the man at the table next to ours: Your car awaits without.

"Without what?" retorted the rather loud-mouthed gentleman.

"Without lights," said the cop. "Here's your ticket."

"The old-fashioned buggy is not quite extinct and looking down upon them as they pass in their infrequent way one gets the impression that many of them, when not serving their legitimate purpose, are used for hen roosts," remarks the Marmette Eagle-Star.

An old colored man was arraigned before a justice of peace on a charge of assault. During the proceedings the judge asked him if he wanted a lawyer appointed to defend him. "No, no, judge," he replied, "I don't want no lawyer, but I suitly would like a couple of good witnesses, if you got 'em."

A young man was lying on the operating table ready for an examination.

Doctor (to attendant)—"Bring in ethyl chloride."

PREPAREDNESS

A Virginian who had moved to Baltimore was driving through the section where he formerly lived and stopped at a bar cabin to get a drink. An old black woman came out and he recognized her as one from his old plantation. She was fat and slovenly and had a cornob pipe in her mouth, black, foul and dribbling over her chin. He spoke to her: "Look here, aunt, aren't you a good woman?"

"Yes, sah, I is."

"Don't you know what the good book says about keeping yourself clean and undefiled?"

"Yes, sah, I heard about dat."

"Well, what do you suppose they will say to you if you try to get into heaven with your breath smelling from that dirty old pipe?"

"Now, hole on der, Massa Ray, I s'pects when I die and go to heaven I's gonna die and leave my 'breth behind."

To Negro Doctor—"Doctor, I have been havin' terrible nightmares lately. Has I got hallucinations?"

"Boy, even your best friends won't tell you that."

Speaking of kissing spreading the flu, there are some folks brought down with it who haven't had a kiss in forty years.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the megaphone man, "on your right you see a monument erected to a noble cause." "And what does it stand for?" asked a tourist. "Because, madam," said the guide, "it would look silly lying down."

She—Did you have a good time at your summer cottage last season?

He—No, but dozens of our friends did.

Today's Anniversary

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT

Today may properly be celebrated as the birthday of American night life. Whether the term to be used to include an evening spent in an isolated farmhouse or in a metropolitan night club, for exactly 50 years ago, on April 22, 1879, Thomas Alva Edison was granted a patent on the incandescent lamp—an invention which changed the after-sundown map of the world in less than 20 years.

The basic principles underlying Edison's invention were known to science long before Edison experimented with them. His fame rests on the fact that he overcame enormous difficulties to make a practical utility of what had been merely a scientific toy.

Contrary to popular belief, Edison's achievement did not consist merely of placing a few magic wires in a "bottle" and hermetically sealing them with a threaded cap. It included devising a practical method of supplying energy to his lamp, or in other words, originating power. The Pearl street powerhouse in New York, put in operation in 1882, was the first of the great central station systems of today.

BANANAS FOR BIMBOS

Dr. Ludo Meyersburg, New Orleans baby specialist, reports that he fed bananas to 90 babies ranging in age from 4 months to 2 years. They were all normal infants, though several of them had not gained satisfactorily and several had constipation.

Two of the babies were unable to continue taking bananas because it proved too laxative. Many of them began to make satisfactory gains in weight after they received bananas. Some of the babies were completely cured of their constipation, and many were greatly benefited.

It is advisable that only thoroughly ripened banana be fed to infants. When a banana is well ripened it has a rich golden yellow color and is flecked over with brown spots—not black marks from bruising, but brown spots that make the banana more attractive. In ripening a considerable part of the starch of the banana is converted into sugar.

Thus, the fresh banana, green or only slightly yellow, contains about 20 per cent starch and only 2 or 3 per cent sugar. The same banana after thorough ripening will contain less than 1 per cent starch and nearly 20 per cent sugar. This conversion of starch into sugar gives the banana its fine flavor when thoroughly ripened.

Cooking, of course, converts considerable starch in an unripe banana into banana, into sugar. But it is better to feed the children raw banana. If any ripe banana today.

Besides its high nutritive value, you can buy more actual food in a banana than you can get for a nickel in ham, lamb or steak—banana contains fair amounts of vitamins A, B, and C.

The onion is a famous "health food," though it is not clear how it got its reputation. An onion gives a lot of flavor and contains considerable mineral matter that is a dietary, especially of urban dwellers.

But I suspect the onion, or its popularity largely to advertising. You know, when one includes onion in the menu one invariably goes out and tells the world about it with every breath. It is not so with the banana. A banana will yield all the mineral food the choicest onion can provide, and besides the banana gives you a lot of calories.

All that is wrong with a lot of bimboes is they don't get a fair break in the way of vitamins. There is entirely too much feeding by quaint rules, rules conceived by old time baby specialists who knew too many things which were not so. The amateur mother, of course she has learned nothing whatever about the vulgar business of raising babies in her funny school course—tries to feed the baby by some queer old rule, the baby gets the short end on this and that essential food material, and then there's trouble. A very common trouble is constiveness, merely due to insufficient solid food. The amateur mother, instead of dealing intelligently with this, keeps right on doling out the inadequate rations and begins to ply the poor kid with physic, enemas, and something, and things, and from had to worse.

Resist that impulse. Spare that bimbo the interference habit. Patronize Tony the banana man and watch the bimbo thrive.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Don't Be Nervous

You probably know P. A.—that's the reason you have so much to say in the newspapers—but if you ever suffer the fate of nervous trouble I'd like to hear what you will have to say about about there being no such ailments. . . (C. O. A.)

Answer—Hold on, there, brother. You are hanging me for a sheep and I'm only a goat. I know there are many diseases of the nervous system and many ailments of the mind.

All I have said about "nervousness," "nervous breakdown," and "nervous exhaustion" is true—there is no such ailment or disease, and I stand by that until some qualified physician ventures to define any ailment or disease under that vague title.

I know some of the old timers still like to have people believe "nervousness" or "nervous wreck" will suffice as a diagnosis, but thank fortune these quacks are dying off and better educated physicians are striving to find out what really ails folks who masquerade under the "nervous" makeup.

As a rule we find that persons who have actual disease of the nervous system are not at all "nervous" as that adjective is usually understood; and on the other hand, people of restless, excitable or unstable disposition or temperament are not more liable to have disease of the nervous system than are phlegmatic, calm, contented folk.

So please don't get nervous about this. I don't want to rob you of your "nervousness complex," if you are using it to get by. I merely assert there is no such ailment or disease recognized by honest physicians under such vague names, and this, I have reason to know, is healthful knowledge for many readers.

It Pays to Know
Kindly send me your formula for a deodorant. Two years ago I received the formula from you and it made the most successful deodorant I have ever used. Furthermore, the money spent procured a deodorant that went at least 50 times as far. (A. I. G.)

Answer—I am not sure, but perhaps you refer to a formula for the relief of excessive or odorous perspiration. It is half an ounce of aluminum chloride dissolved in three ounces of water. Mop the skin with this once daily for a few days in succession. Allow it to dry before dressing. After that, an occasional application as may seem necessary. Too much may produce irritation of the skin.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER

Washington — Rep. Oliver E. Kemp, who represents one of the picturesque Acadian districts of Louisiana, is just a little bit puzzled as to whether some of his constituents think they want him to congress or to duty in the war department.

For out of one of his "baron" parishes there came to him the other day the following request:

"I am an old man and live in a neighborhood where there are many children. They nearly pester the life out of me by throwing rocks on my roof while I am trying to sleep. Will you not have the war department send me an army rifle and some bullets? I promise to take good care of it and return it to you when I have shown these boys I mean business."

Mr. Kemp's reply was that he was not in the rifle business.

MAIL IS HEAVY
This request is typical of the many that are to be found almost daily in every representative's mail. And every member of congress will tell you that it is the next thing to political suicide not to attempt some sort of an answer to such letters.

About the same time Mr. Kemp was asked for a rifle, a request came from a lumber company in his district that he use his office to secure some buffalo for a proposed park on their land. He was more successful in this instance, but it required quite a bit of effort to get the animals from the west to the far south.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota delights in telling of a request he received from an elderly woman constituent shortly after the inauguration. She asked that he exert an effort in the senate to have a law passed making it a penitentiary offense to apply a nickname to the president of the United States.

"It grieved me much," she wrote, "to hear dear Mr. Coolidge referred to as Cal. Now I understand some people are referring to the splendid Mr. Hoover as Herb. I think it is disgraceful, and I strongly urge you to use your influence to stamp out this practice."

Senator Nye replied that he could not undertake such a crusade, that he thought it was a good practice to nickname a president and hoped it would continue.

"CRIPPLED POULTRY"

Mrs. Florence P. Kahn, who succeeded her late husband as a representative in congress from California, tells of a letter she received from a woman who had seen references to the lame ducks in congress.

She wrote Mrs. Kahn in protest, pointing out that she thought it was a disgrace to this country and to the sanitary conditions of the world to have malformed fowls thrust upon unsuspecting people, and would she please take steps to see that the practice was discontinued?

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—The New York school which John D. Rockefeller Jr. endows and underwrites is an institution where those vast extremes, typical of Manhattan life, can be found.

Here mingle the children of the fabulously rich and the contrastingly poor.

The opportunity for entrance is not based upon the standards of wealth, but upon the precocity displayed. Youngsters living in ordinary and humble circumstances who can run the mental blockade are given an equal chance with boys and girls whose parents are the financial kings of America.

Rich and poor alike must display mental alertness, which places them ahead of average youngsters of their years. Thus, while it is essentially a public school, its student body is automatically limited.

Every effort is made to dispel any notion of caste differences and to draw the distinctions along mental lines. To be sure, the child of a captain of industry who has sufficient intelligence to gain an entrance is almost certain to have cast snobbery aside and to have observed human relationships from their proper perspective. Children of the wealthy rich, pampered into self-consciousness, are far more likely to be undemocratic.

Thus, I learn from a lad of my acquaintance, Davy Rockefeller, who is one of the students, cannot be distinguished—except by name—from any of the scores of lads and lasses in attendance. I am told that Davy seems to have no more money than anyone else and, though he could purchase a whole museum of insects, is quite content to swap bugs for the collection he gathers in connection with class work.

Of course, Davy and some of his very rich companions are able to set out at vacation time for any place their interest or impulse may guide them. They can look over the hieroglyphs of Egypt or the native tribes of Africa, or they can have any form of tutoring they wish.

Still the methods of teaching employed are such that the lad from an average family gets an excellent head start. With the result that the Lincoln School leads when college exams come.

The experiment—if such it can be called—is largely the idea of John D. Jr. and some of his fellows. Thus, in the teaching of mathematics, the lads are sent out with surveyors to learn the uses and meanings of angles and curves long before they are plunged into the mysteries of algebra and geometry. They visualize and understand what they are driving at before they commence the actual study. And so, trigonometry is

FOR PERSONAL LIBERTY

Dear Editor—I would like to say that I didn't think we had three hundred people in Appleton so narrow-minded as to send such a petition to the Governor, as your article in the paper would signify.

After such an overwhelming majority as the last vote for "wet" showed, they still have nerve enough to try to stop the will of the people. If they want monarchy rule, why don't they go back to some heathen country where they can get it?

The United States was founded with the principles that the majority will rule, and the only time it did not rule was in regard to the Eighteenth Amendment. There are too many hypocrites in the country to put it up to the vote of the people. It was put over as a war measure, when the citizens of Appleton as well as of the whole United States showed they would sacrifice anything for liberty. And to think that in Appleton there are three hundred such people who are against what our boys died for—Liberty.

Thus, again, if a Civil War battle is to be studied, an actual scene is re-enacted. The floor becomes a battle-field and troops are marched on Vicksburg, in the exact movements of the war. Such instances are typical of the entire method of training. But the school must make certain that those who enter it are mentally prepared for their course and a stiff preliminary test is given.

HIGH-TARIFF WOULD INJURE SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY IN STATE

Lawmaker Says Legislation Needed to Keep Business Alive

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Bureau of the Post-Crescent)

Washington—The sugar beet industry in Wisconsin and other states will be wiped out in a decade, if measures are not taken to revive it, and the imposition of a high tariff on sugar imports will only hasten the day, Representative James A. Frear of Hudson, chairman of the Wisconsin delegation in Congress, told the House of Representatives Saturday.

Since tariff duties cannot be applied to imports from the Philippines, Hawaii, and Porto Rico, the only effect of the high tariff advocated by some beet sugar people would be to increase the cost of sugar to American consumers by $240,000,000 a year, and to stimulate production in the island possessions to such an extent that the United States industry would be wiped out. Representative Frear, a member of the Ways and Means Committee now drafting the tariff bill, declared, "Since sugar from the islands will continue to come in free, while sugar from Cuba and other countries will be taxed, the islands, with their favorable soil and climate, their great undeveloped areas, and their plentiful labor, will greatly increase their production, and the beet sugar industry in the United States will be bankrupt, he said."

Representative Frear's recommendation is a bounty of 1 1/2 to 2 cents a pound on sugar produced from cane, beets, or sorgho in continental United States, provided no child labor is used in the production.

The Wisconsin congressman has thus provided an unusual way to eliminate the child labor in the beet sugar industry which he so greatly deprecates. The bounty would not be paid to any concern which employs children under 16 years old or more than eight hours a week, either in the production of the beets, sugar cane, or sorgho, or in any of the sugar-making operations.

The bounty would also be denied companies which refine any imported sugar.

With this county there would be a duty of 15 cents a pound, and out of the duty collected, the bounty would be paid to American producers, under Representative Frear's plan.

"Viewed from any angle, the uncertainty of the future in sugar beet industries is more than ominous," Representative Frear said in his speech to the House of Representatives Saturday.

"Certainly a tariff plank is a poor life preserver in a business quicksand produced by free cane sugar that will continue to come in in increasing volume until it covers the market and buries our local sugar industries. That can yet be avoided by legitimate means. Unwarranted prejudices based on a past experience under entirely different conditions should not prevent."

Some of the facts about the sugar industry cited by Representative Frear are:

The 120,000,000 people in the United States consume 12,000,000,000 pounds of sugar a year, or 100 pounds each.

Of this amount, Cuba furnishes about 6,000,000,000 pounds, which comes into the country at a tariff rate 20 per cent lower than the rate from other foreign countries, while domestic beet sugar producers now furnish 1,850,000,000 pounds, domes-

MARRIED MEN TO GET PREFERENCE FOR TAXI JOBS

Parmalee Company Will Engage Only Wedded and Older Men for Drivers

BY LEMUEL F. PARSON

New York — Marriage is to be the new stepping stone to taxi driving. The newly organized Parmalee Transportation company, employing cent of all the sugar investments in the Philippines, and 80 per cent of the sugar investment in Cuba, while Spanish interests own nearly as much in the Philippines as American interests own.

With the establishment of such a bounty system as he recommends, the English sugar beet industry has increased the acreage devoted to sugar beets from 22,000 to 175,000 in five years.

A 1 1/2-cent tariff on imported sugar would produce enough revenue to pay the 2-cent bounty on domestic sugar, will save that amount to the consumer and give our mills sufficient profits to pay fair wages for labor and for their sugar beets.

Whether or not Representative Frear's subsidy proposal will be heard in the midst of the hysteria for a higher tariff to cure all the troubles of agriculture and industry is problematical.

approximately 50,000 men, in New York, Chicago and other large cities, is out for married men and older men — with a lesser turnover of labor and a greater turnover of taxi meters.

The 1929 model cabs which now bedazzle the city streets will be more on the lines of those valrus moustached veterans of the battle of the Marne, who ride their ancient rattle-traps like Tom Mix riding a cayuse, but who never killed anybody and who make Paris the wonder of the world in its minimum of casualties and arrests.

They will be less — decidedly — on the lines of the early dry boy bandits with bear's grease on their hair, an encyclopedic knowledge of places of illicit entertainment and a habit of going from Wall Street to Fourteen by way of Yonkers.

Ernest H. Miller, taxi magnate heading the new multi-city sting, has made what is possibly the first scientific study of taxi driver personnel — actual and potential. It has to be done, Mr. Miller had managed to make his tickers score quite a few personal missions for him by the most detailed and elaborate study of operating costs, overhead and such, by which a tiny fraction of a cent per mile, saved here and there, saved his company, against stiff competition by other means of transportation. The smallest items of fuel, repairs, and materials were figured in the graph of the entire system.

ERRATIC FACTOR
The only erratic, and, for the time being, the factor was the human variant. Skill and dependability in taxi driving couldn't be figured like horse power or tire mileage. Mr. Miller set out to find the right kind of men and fit them permanently into his mosaic of rubber, iron and gasoline. The result is the twentieth century centaur, in which driver and taxicab are so closely knit as to suggest that gasoline and beef-teak might be interchangeable foods.

Mr. Miller has thrown the flag up against floaters. The day of the in-and-out taxi driver has passed. Like Rabbi Ben Ezra, Mr. Miller wants men who will grow old along with him. There is the same concentration on the health and future of a driver as there is on the condition and staying qualities of a taxicab. In this equation, human material and functioning is quite as important as carburetors and differentials. The employee gets the benefit of company insurance, he has access to benefits, medical attention and other welfare arrangements. The plans of the newly organized company, the largest operator of taxicabs in the world, are perhaps unique in their concentration on the selection, training and conditioning of personnel. "The driver of a public cab has a great responsibility to the passenger, to the public on the street, as his employer," said Mr. Miller. "Subjected to the weakness of everyone, who, being only human, is liable to his peculiar position on account of the vast responsibility of which very few people are aware he needs the cooperation of the rider. We ask further that the public do nothing — in the interest of fair play — to make it difficult for the driver to shoulder this responsibility. We tell the public that they are not helping the driver to shoulder this responsibility when they tell him to 'Hurry' and experience has shown that the few seconds that he would save do not warrant the risk he must take. We ask the passenger to help him all he can — to be his friend."

MUSHROOMS
ON SPRING
MARKET LISTBY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Many housewives use the delicious flavor of mushrooms in combination with other ordinary materials to create a truly delicious dish. They keep mushroom paste or catsup on their emergency shelf constantly.

However, with fresh mushrooms being brought into our local markets from nearby mushroom farms, most of us can enjoy the use of the fresh product rather than the bottled or canned one.

Cultivated mushrooms are not prohibitive in price and are much more desirable than those gathered in the fields. Too much danger from poisoning lies in eating mushrooms which have been gathered by any one but an authority on this subject.

The nutritive value of mushrooms is comparatively good. They are particularly noted for their protein content but as they are almost 90 per cent water, a goodly quantity of them would have to be eaten to make them a true meat substitute. Even then they are deficient in some of the nutrients found in lean meats. The chief value of mushrooms lies in their uniqueness of flavor.

Unless mushrooms are very dirty and sandy they should not be washed. They are very delicate and water tends to destroy their flavor as well as make them tough. Separate the caps from the stems. Scrape the stems and peel the caps if the skin is tough. The stems

Clean mushrooms and cut in small pieces. Melt butter, add mushrooms and saute for five minutes. Sift over flour and stir gently with a fork until all is absorbed. Sprinkle with salt and add cream. Stir carefully and bring to the boiling point, but do not let boil. Simmer just below the boiling point for five minutes. Serve at once in patty shells, timbale cases or hot toast.

If mushrooms must be washed, do it very gently, taking care that the gills do not become water soaked. Dry them on a soft cloth and turn cap gills downward to dry.

The peellings can be covered with cold water, brought to the boiling point and simmered over a low fire for fifteen minutes. Strain through a cheesecloth and use the stock for flavoring soups and sauces.

If mushrooms are plentiful and need not be used as a "stretcher," perhaps the simplest and most

FALSE PRIDE IN THE MATTER OF CLOTHING

"What's the matter with those shoes?" Junior's father wanted to know. "They just need new soles and a little patch."

Instantly Junior's mother turned fury. "Well, if you want your son to wear patched shoes, I don't," she stated. "You wouldn't wear them yourself, yet you expect him to go out looking like a beggar."

"Well, it wouldn't hurt him. When I was a boy—"

"Oh, don't go all over that again. Yes, I know! You went in your bare feet until it snowed and when you did get a pair of shoes they had copper toes and heel plates. I suppose there's no use in telling you that the world has changed in 30 years and that it isn't being done any more. If I tried to buy copper plates for Junior's shoes now, well I might as well ask for bird's nests. You'd have the child wearing kneecaps, too, if you could. Now, be sensible, John and give me the money."

This is a sample of many such conversations in the Smith family. Another occurred the day Mrs. Smith pointed to two large parcels in the hall and told her husband to put them in the car and take them down to the janitor at the office, for his boys.

"What are they?" he wanted to know. "Junior's last summer's clothes. There's an excellent spring coat and three suits, some underwear, socks, shirts and ties."

FATHER IS DUBIOUS
John Smith hesitated. "Can't Junior wear any of them? You're not more's in store. We'd like to see all that we can while we are with the moon." This made the moon man broadly smile, and he replied, "Just wait a while. I think I have another treat. 'Twill be here pretty soon."

This made one of the Tinsies shout, "Oh, tell us what it's all about. We can't stay very long 'cause we have other things to do. Our bird may tire out flying 'round, so very soon he must be found. You see, we're always very kind to good old Goofy-goo."

Just then they heard a swishing sound. Of course it made them look around. "That's what I meant," the moon man cried. "You've read of this before." And all of them saw, very soon, a big cow jump right over the moon. This pleased them so they clapped their hands, and all began to roar.

THE NEW Saint
Sinner
By Anne Austin

Tony Tarver flung up her salt-lant, Byronic little head and fixed Crystal with challenging, blue eyes: "Crys, what sort of girl would you say I am?"

"You're not easy to put on a thumbnail, Tony," Crystal replied. "I can give you a list of adjectives that I have heard applied to you and which fit perfectly: gay, salt-lant, courageous, square-jawed, beautiful, without a scrap of conceit."

"That's enough!" Tony interrupted, with odd curtness. Then, her lovely mouth twisting with a bitterness that Crystal had never seen on it before: "So much for adjectives. Crys — and thanks! Now — how do these nouns strike you? Cheater, thrill-glutton, teaser, poor sport—"

"And that's enough!" Crystal cried. "Did you let Dick Talbot call you those names and — live?"

Tony laughed, a queer, harsh sound. "Yes — and agreed with him, I believe. Oh — with slight reservations, of course. Didn't I intimate a while ago that I'd been — hurt?"

"Oh, Tony! This can't be you!" Crystal groaned. "To think that Dick Talbot, who has pretended to be in love with you—"

"That's just it!" Tony admitted, dully. "It seems, darling, that he really does love me. I began to suspect that he'd gone deadly serious about it tonight at dinner. He made all my plans for having you snare his interest by ignoring him look pretty silly, don't he? And it would have been a good plan even a month ago.... Well," she shrugged, slipped off the bed, and began to undress as if the subject were closed.

Crystal lay back wearily on her pillows. "And so, because he's convinced you that he really loves you in a big way, you let him prove it by calling you vile names?"

"Right!" Tony agreed. "There was an adjective you forgot to include in your gorgeous list, Crys — one I've been sort of fond of tacking on to myself. Fair-minded. Rather a masculine trait, but I've always thought I had it. But think so, too," she added wistfully. "Fair-minded... You see, Crys," she began again, after a long pause, very slowly, when she had sat down to the dressing table and dipped her fingertips into a squat, black jar of cold cream, "looking at it from Dick's viewpoint, he has a perfect right to make out a strong case against me. He must let him make love to me almost as much and often as he pleased, without being a good enough sport — as he puts it — to finish what I started."

Crystal's pale face blazed with anger. "The rotten little cad! You've told him a dozen times, at least, that you would not marry him! He knew you meant it!"

"Which?" Tony interrupted, in an oddly dispassionate voice, "is exactly the crux of the matter, darling. Dick contends — if that's a strong word — that I've given him every right to think I preferred another and less public and binding relationship. Quite a genteel way to express it, isn't it? But Dick's way — I'll shrug — is a hard sholder. 'Hence when I dashed the Stop signal to night, it all came tumbling out. One modern young man's frank opinion of the modern girl who issues promissory notes and refuses to pay.'"

NEXT: Crystal considers two answers to a terrible question. (Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)

ITALY'S FIRST AVIATRIX WILL SEEK LICENSE

Chicago — (P) — Marchesa Theodora Marconi, Italy's first woman airplane pilot and one of the first three women to fly in France, says she will seek an American license to fly.

She was in Chicago long enough to make plane connections for the west coast, where she plans to write a book called "The Joy of War." After she finished that, based on experiences with the ambulance corps of the Italian and American armies during the World war, she says she will try for a pilot's license in this country.

sending his gray overcoat, are you? It's still pretty good. It could be relined."

"John, can't I convince you that it is absolutely necessary to dress children right these days? All Junior's friends are getting new things and I'm not going to have him looking like a tramp."

"Well, I haven't had a new spring coat for three years and if Junior gets a new one, I can't. And look here, the janitor, believe it or not, makes within $25 a month as much as I do. And he owns two houses while we're still renting."

"I can't help that. You're a man, Junior's only a little boy and he's sensitive about his clothes. Why not put your own pride in your pocket and let him enjoy things while he's young? I'm not going to have him look like a tramp even if you— And so on!"

Well—it's just the same old story. The worst of it was that Junior heard it all. Do you think he'll ever wear a patched shoe or a second-season coat again? Not he.

Why should we get that idea that nothing is too good for the childrepp? Why shouldn't they wear restored shoes and relined coats, occasionally, no matter how well their parents can afford better ones. Certainly they should be taught economy. It's a false pride at best.

I believe that the matter of extravagant dressing in the younger generation is quite often the fault of parents.

America Is First In Distribution Of Style

BY F. J. STARZEL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
New York — (P) —

The five-pointed star of the capital on the world's style map. For speed and thoroughness in distributing the season's creations among millions of women throughout the country, however, America earns the high distinction.

No longer does the American woman of limited financial resources wait to make her purchases until after the elite trade has been satisfied. She finds the latest, authentic styles in the salons ready-to-wear sections and price-appeal departments almost simultaneously. She does not find the same garment, of course, but she does find what is described by that all-embracing term, "the season's mode."

Competition, a new style-consciousness and demand have wrought these changes. Women insist on the new styles while they are new and it is only a matter of good business to meet the demand.

Mass production and modern methods have not taken romance from the business of producing stylish garments in America. Twentieth century communication, transportation and manufacturing have added zest in the incessant race "to be first and to be right."

Constant exchange of information between the world's style sources and the centers of design, manufacture and distribution in America keep the machinery of fashion-creation attuned. Fast ocean liners bring the newest Parisian creations to America.

"Within a few hours after an anxious buyer has succeeded in passing through the customs with the gowns, the entire complicated process of duplicating, modifying and adapting the style changes, which these Parisian models typify, has been thrown into action."

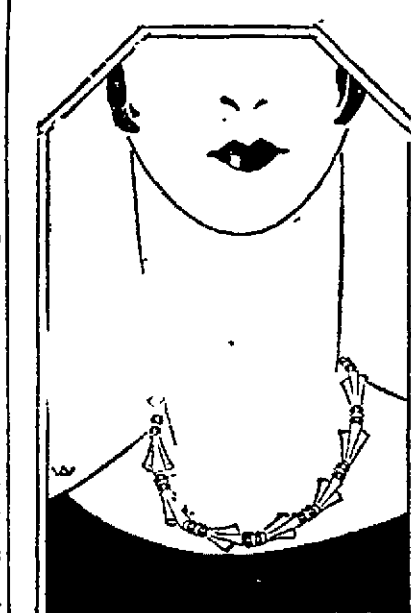

Expert pattern-makers in a few minutes cut their gencils and start the process of duplicating the garment. The garments are next rushed to the merchandisers, photographers are made, advertisements prepared and the intricate functions of the sales organization are pushed into gear. If the buyer represents a retail outlet, the original models may then be placed in the store for sale, depending upon the policy of the particular organization.

Only a comparatively few exact copies are made from the Parisian originals. The primary use of the importations is to determine from them the basic style trends. Then begins the work of modifying and adapting these styles to creations for the mass of American buyers.

Only the fundamental of the mode will be retained in these multiple variations. One after another the various garments will be placed in production. The styles for the season have been created and soon will be on display from New York to San Francisco.

PLAY AREAS DEVELOPED BY CITY WOMEN

Cambridge, Mass. — (P) — Converting unused back yards in the business district into play grounds for children is a project successfully carried out by the Cambridge league of women voters.

Realizing that municipal playgrounds are often in distant places where children must get into heavy traffic in order to reach them, the women voters launched its plan for back yard playgrounds.

Prizes were offered in a citywide contest. Exhibits of back yard playgrounds were held in all parts of the city. Social agencies were interested. Soon boys and girls were more absorbed in making models of playgrounds than in playing in real ones.

DANGER LIES IN BULKLESS DIETS

Eat ALL-BRAN and Prevent Constipation

Thousands of people wonder why they are suffering when they try to be so careful regarding their diet. They have headaches, bad complexions and are unhappy because their old-time strength and vigor are gone.

Constipation is often the cause of this bad health. And lack of bulk in the diet is usually the cause of constipation. Roughage is needed daily to sweep the system clean of poisonous wastes. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this roughage.

Describes Her Trip Abroad To C. D. A.

A VISIT to Mussolini after permission to do so had been refused, a blessing from the Pope, a flight in an airplane over the highest Alp, a dance with the composer of the Merry Widow Waltz, and attendance at the dinner honoring Lindbergh when he reached Paris were some of the events described by Mrs. Gertrude Bowler of Sheboygan at the annual birthday tea of the Catholic Daughters of America Monday night at Hotel Northern.

Mrs. Bowler, state lecturer of the Catholic Daughters of America, and Mrs. Anna M. Baxter, of Cuba City, Ia., national organizer, were introduced by Miss Mabel Burke, worthy regent, who presided as toastmistress. Mrs. Baxter spoke on the aims and ideals of the organization and the achievement of those aims. About 160 members and friends of the Court heard Mrs. Bowler give intimate and personal glimpses of her three months abroad. She was a Democratic National committee woman at that time and had a letter of introduction from Secretary Kellogg. Primarily, Mrs. Bowler was interested in people, socially and politically, and it was of the people of the various countries she visited that she spoke Monday evening. She told of her visit to the palace of Emperor Josef in Vienna, an interview with Dr. Haenisch, socialist president of that city, of a talk with Myron T. Herrick, of attending the international Rotarians convention at Ostend, where 40 nations were represented, of the five kings she had seen, and of her visit to Lady Astor, and Parliament.

OUTLINES C. D. A. AIMS The aims of the C. D. A. as listed by Mrs. Baxter were to contribute to Catholicism and Americanism; the utilization of intolerance through education; the development of lay leadership; the welfare of Catholic girlhood; the promulgation of the faith, through missionary, educational and social service work. She described the social service center at Milwaukee conducted by the organization, now in its twenty-sixth year, and told of the seven scholarships established, the junior league movement, the convent league movement, and the financial assets and backing of the organization. Mrs. Baxter expressed the hope that the Appleton court would be able to establish a junior league soon.

Preceding the addresses of Mrs. Baxter and Mrs. Bowler, the Rev. F. L. Reussman of Sacred Heart church, and chaplain of the organization, talked on the work expected of members of the C. D. A. A group of songs sung by C. O. Collip, G. W. Collip, Marvin Garfield and W. Daniels accompanied by Emylin Owens, was another feature of the evening.

Miss Burke announced the social meeting of the court for Monday evening, May 20 at Catholic home, when members will be entertained at a card party. Miss Josephine Zangl will be in charge.

NEW ORGAN OF
IS DEDICATED

With a program of softly sacred music, the new organ at All-Saints Episcopal church was dedicated Monday evening before a capacity congregation. The recital was given by Stanley Martin, choirmaster and organist of St. Mark church, Evanston, Ill., and of the Sunday Evening club, Chicago, assisted by William Prizer, bass soloist from St. Mark church.

The organist played with mastery skill and showed a sympathetic understanding both of the organ and of the compositions he played. His whole program, whether he played Bach, Dvorak or Nevin, was overcast with an atmosphere of solemnity and mellowness that brought out the lovely tones of the new instrument. Mr. Martin played three numbers by Bach and selections by Gullmunt, Dvorak, Candlyn, Mellander, Nevin and Miles. Mr. Miles sang "If God So Clothe the Grass" by Elschoff. The processional and recessional hymns were sung by the vested choir of the church under the direction of Prof. John Ross Frampton and the Rev. H. S. Gatliff, rector, led in prayer.

The organ, dedicated on the birthday of Mrs. Bina Tottman Van Nortwick, was presented to the church in memory of Mrs. Van Nortwick by Mrs. Martha Holbrook and Mrs. Mary Alsted. It is a two manual, 15-stop, electric-action organ of the latest type.

NEARBY
TOWNSPAIR RENEWS
NUPTIAL VOWS
50 YEARS OLDMr. and Mrs. John Fischer Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary

Special to Post-Crescent

Darby—Where 50 years ago a young couple drove to Darby in a borrowed buggy, which was brought to a stop before the Holy Angels church, a cavalcade of gaily trimmed automobiles halted Monday, while Mr. and Mrs. John Fischer renewed their wedding vows before the Rev. John Hueselstein. The impressive ceremony with solemn high mass in honor of the pioneer couple was witnessed by their nine children, their grandchildren and great grandchildren, and a large number of relatives and friends.

After the service at the church a wedding dinner was served at the Fischer home, on tables decorated with flowers, wedding bells and ribbons. The dinner was prepared by the bride of half-century ago, who is almost as active as she was at the time of the wedding.

John Fischer was born in Bavaria, Germany, March 16, 1856. He came in America with his parents in 1869 and settled at Darby on a farm. Anna Probst was born in Bavaria Oct. 11, 1858. She came to Darby with her parents. Her parents followed the trees for their humble log cabin, a small tract of land was cleared upon which to seed a bit of grain and to plant vegetables. Their nearest neighbor was at Green Bay. Her father carried flour and provisions home on his shoulders over an Indian trail through the forest. She relates narratives of the hardships, their cattle were allowed to roam the forest and often wandered many miles from their home. Her father was lost in the woods on different occasions as he hunted for the cows, and at one time her sister became lost. After an all night search she was found in the morning, exhausted, on a settler's doorstep many miles from home. Her parents used oxen to till the soil and to haul rails and logs to town. They threshed their grain with flails by hand.

SLOW MAIL SERVICE

Mail in those days was carried on foot from Menasha to Manitowoc the trip was made in a day. The first church at Darby was only a small shanty with rough walls and floors. Parishioners stood during services, as there were no seats. The Rev. Fr. Dear was the first parish priest. There were no schools in the pioneer days, but later the parish priest instructed the children at intervals. Land in the pioneer days was valued at from $1 to $6 per acre. Today the land in this section is the cost valuable in Calumet-co.

Mr. Fischer has been one of the best known farmers in the county. He still takes an active part with all farm work, and takes a great interest in the politics of the town and State. Twelve children were born to them of which nine are living they are Jos Fischer of Ft. Worth, Texas, Mrs. Henry Schwabach, town of Harrison, Edward near Kaukauna, Mrs. Clifford Lewis, Richard Center, Paul, Clintonville, Mrs. Claude Bissinger, Fort Worth, John at home on farm, Richard Oshkosh, Frank of Harrison, all of whom attended the golden wedding festivities. Mrs. Fischer has one brother, Jacob Probst living on a farm adjacent to the Fischer home. Mr. Fischer has one brother in Minnesota.

The home farm buildings were specially lighted for the purpose the power company having sent a special crew to take care of this work.

AIN'T NO SUCH ANIMAL, GIRLS

Akron, O. — Twenty-six co-eds of Akron University were recently interviewed on what kind of a husband they expected and desired to get. And what a man they picked!

The 28 answers, boiled down and taken as an average, would make the ideal husband something like this:

Six feet tall, 180 pounds, and curly black hair. Loud socks, ties and other "ultra" styles in clothing are out. The average age is 25, and the lucky gent must have an income of $2500 a year with $1,000 in the bank as a starter. He must be proficient in golf, football, swimming and tennis.

Some of the co-eds agreed that their ideal mate must not drink, gamble, chew, swear or pet. Others, however, were a little more agreeable and would make no complaint against these vices in moderate forms.

His virtues must include ambition, modern ideas, good nature, and generosity.

When Baby is constipated, colicky, fretful — he needs this remedy. Know the genuine by Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

CUBA LEARNS THAT TOURIST BUSINESS IS REVENUE SOURCE

Island Finds Out That Even Sugar or Tobacco Won't Bring More Money

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
New York—Cuba has just finished cleaning up on a new crop—the tourists business of the winter world. Indications from business men now in close contact with Cuban affairs are that the Pearl of the Antilles will find this new source of revenue more profitable than the sugar or tobacco crops which have helped make the island famous.

The results of the best tourist year Cuba has ever had are now apparent and give perhaps the best assurance of the stability of conditions in the island Republic.

Cuba undoubtedly will make a strong effort to lower the tariff wall on sugar lowered at the special session of congress now in progress at Washington. But few in touch with the situation expect to find any repercussion affecting the foreign trade of the United States and Cuba in event of the failure of the sugar planters to secure what they ask.

President Machado will be inaugurated for another six year term on May 20. His supporters allude to him as the Mussolini of the Caribbean. While he undoubtedly carries tremendous power in his own country, he is not oblivious to the huge investments of American capital in Cuba and the influx of money which has done much to put the business conditions of Cuba on a sound basis in the last six months.

IMPOSE RESTRAINT
There is no question but that these factors impose a very real restraint on the present Cuban administration. Not the least of these is the federal revenue system which through its Atlanta district, maintains a branch in Cuba. American tourists spent over a billion dollars in foreign travel in the last year and Cuba received a greater proportion during the last four months than ever before.

The expenditure next winter in Cuba and the Isle of Pines by tourists is expected to exceed $100,000,000. So great have been the numbers of visitors that the big hotel chains of America are planning to expand facilities in the island. The country is constructing a system of stone and concrete highways which would do credit to any American state system. The stone for these improvements is coming by the plenitude daily from Stone Mountain near Atlanta. The cost of this system will be nearly $100,000,000. The people of Cuba are beginning to realize the importance of their country as a winter playground and their temperance is such that reception of visitors has been a delight rather than a pure business deal, although they do not overlook the profits. Those who have wintered there in recent years say there is a notable lack of the "night club" atmosphere with its greeting, "Hello, suckers," as compared with the European attitude. Men who are investing in Cuba maintain that the movement there has attained a volume which nothing can stop except the repeal of the prohibition amendment.

RADIO COMMISSION TO GAIN NEW AND LOSE OLD MEMBER

Brig. Gen. Charles McK Saltzman Is Appointee—Capt. Guy Hill Resigns

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929, By Cons. Press
Washington—The personnel situation on the federal radio commission managers to keep on about even keel. Just as the commission is about to acquire one of its two long awaited commissioners, Brig. Gen. Charles McK Saltzman, it is going to lose its acting chief engineer, Capt. Guy Hill.

Captain Hill, who has been acting as chief engineer since the resignation of Dr. J. M. Dellinger, has been recalled by the army signal corps. Effective June 1, the commission now is searching about for his successor, and for other qualified engineers to fill out the more or less make shift engineering division. Confirmation by the senate of General Saltzman's appointment as commissioner for the middle western zone is expected shortly. The senate interstate commerce committee acted favorably on his nomination after a brief hearing. There is no known opposition to the general in the senate. O. H. Caldwell, an eastern zone commissioner. It is known, however, that the names he is seriously considering are those of William D. L. Starbuck, patent attorney and engineer of New York City and Capt. David Todd former naval communications officer. Both are said to be democratic and thus eligible for the appointment.

APPOINT THIS WEEK
George Akerson, secretary to the president declared that there is little likelihood of an appointment for this vacancy until late this week. President Hoover, he says, is "taking his time" about selecting the man for the job but also is mindful of the fact that without its full membership the commission's work is impeded.

In the meantime the commission is marking time. Routine matters, of course, must be cleared but on questions of policy and on the allocation of ware length it is awaiting the induction into office of the men designated by President Hoover to fill its membership. Even after the commission has full membership, it must hold up action on important matters until such time as the new commissioners become conversant with the principles and policies underlying radio administration.

Mr. Starbuck, who seems to be in the forefront for the first zone appointment is a native of New York City. Forty three years old, he is a graduate of Columbia university with the degree of mechanical engineer, and practiced the profession in New York and in the middle west until December, 1927 when he was commissioned a first lieutenant of ordinance. From May, 1918, until March 1919, he served with the American army in France. From 1919 to 1921 he was a member of the engineering firm of Starbuck, Evans and Clapp in New York and held executive positions with several manufacturing companies.

Beginning in 1921 Mr. Starbuck began his study of Patent law, and in 1925 was admitted in New York to the state and federal bar.

SCIENTIFIC METHOD OF TREATING CRIME IS GETTING RESULTS

University of Chicago Plans to Open Crime Prevention Bureau

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Chicago—A scientific attitude toward crime detection—given a trial here by the coroner's office—shows evidence of paying dividends from the first.

Application of the new science of ballistics, not only has given leads which officials are confident will lead toward a solution of the still unexplained Valentine Day massacre of seven local gangsters, but it has emphasized the possibilities that lie in a more general use of the scientific method in detective work.

As a result, one of the local universities is expected to establish a crime prevention bureau, fitted out to apply the latest methods of detection. There would be an expert on ballistics—the scientific determination of criminal guilt through examination of guns and bullets. There would be fingerprint experts, and foot print specialists, a toxicologist to examine stains and any other evidence left at a crime in which chemistry might be applied.

"I am reasonably certain that in a short time such a crime prevention bureau will be sent up in one of our universities and will function as an aid, free from political interference, to the police and coroner's office," Herman N. Bundesen, the local coroner announced. "At present no large American city possesses the facilities for application of science to crime detection possessed by Scotland Yard in England. This would be a step in that direction."

BUY GUNS EASILY
It has disclosed how deadly submarine guns, firing over 300 forty-five calibre bullets a minute, now the favorite weapon of criminals, may be bought like groceries, in Chicago.

One sporting goods dealer sold 15 of them in a relatively short period of time. It develops now that six of these were purchased by an ex-convict, acting for beer gangsters here. Individuals were shown to have bought machine guns for protection, just as a few years ago they would buy pistols.

The object now is to obtain a line on the machine guns known to be in the hands of criminals. With a department of ballistics available, the police could test all guns taken from criminals, and compare the bullets show from them, with those found in persons killed. Much the same type of identification could be established as that afforded now by fingerprint bureaus.

Coroner Bundesen is convinced that the more general use of scientific methods of crime detection will go a long way toward meeting present

How To Play Bridge

by Milton C. Work
MR. WORK'S POINTERS ON BRIDGE
Mr. Work has prepared a booklet giving detailed information concerning the correct way to play Progressive Auction Bridge. This booklet will be sent to all readers without charge. Mr. Work will also answer without charge any Bridge questions. Requests must be accompanied by an addressed, stamped, return envelope, and addressed to Mr. Milton C. Work care of this newspaper.

Continuing the series of "Misplaced Hands I Have Met," I am giving one today in which the Declarer made a slip that often occurs. The cards were as follows:

South was playing a No Trump contract, and West led a Spade. South won and, attempting to establish Dummy's Clubs, led the Queen. East of course did not take the trick, and South then led the Ten. Once again East held up the Ace so as to block Dummy's suit, although the Declarer did his best to induce him to play it by covering the Ten with the Jack, trying to give the impression that he had no more Clubs in his Closed Hand. When the Jack of Clubs won, Declarer led a Diamond from Dummy and finessed. He then led his Ace of Diamonds and followed with another but failed to clear his suit. The ultimate result was that Declarer captured two Spades, two Clubs, two Diamonds and one Heart trick, a total of seven tricks.

THE CORRECT PLAY
At trick 2, Declarer knowing that the adverse Ace of Clubs would be held up until the third round if it was doubly guarded, as was probable, should have overtaken with the King of Clubs in Dummy so as to be able to lead Diamonds from that hand. With the Diamond led from day problems. Criminals, by taking advantage of all the tricks of the trade more frequently than before, evade punishment. The local plan is to see if science won't pin the guilt so positively that escape will be much more difficult.

KING TUT FINDS GOODRICH EASY

Milwaukee Fighter Is Given Nine Out of Ten Rounds; One Is a Draw

Milwaukee — (AP) — King Tut, Milwaukee lightweight, had things his own way when he mixed gloves with Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion, in a 10-round contest here Monday night. The King blasted his way through to a decisive victory.

Tut, according to newspaper score cards, took nine of the ten rounds. The tenth was a draw. Goodrich fought a purely defensive battle which gave Tut cause for worry more than once.

Joe Gordon, Minneapolis middleweight, scored a technical knockout win from Ben Dischew of Iron Mountain, Mich., in the fourth round of a 10-round bout. Dischew was being so badly battered that the referee called the match.

WILL NAME STUDENTS ON ATHLETIC BOARD

Beloit — In an effort to assure better cooperation in athletic policy between administration and student body the latter group at Beloit college voted to have student representatives on the Athletic Board. A junior and senior representative will be elected by the students in May. This decision was the result of a campaign for closer athletic cooperation sponsored by The Round Table, student newspaper.

Chicago — (AP) — Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, is a good baseball player and a good baseball player can't be held down.

SEE HOCKEY WAR STARTED IN CHICAGO

Indications Are That Paddy Harmon Will Form New Puck League

Chicago — (AP) — Rumbblings of a "hockey war" grew louder Tuesday. Announcement by Major Frederic McLaughlin that his Chicago Blackhawks will continue to play in the Coliseum instead of the new Chicago stadium opened a new flood of apparently reliable reports that Paddy Harmon, president of the stadium, would combine with other recalcitrants and form a hockey opposed to the National league.

Harmon, backed by several wealthy Chicago businessmen in the $7,000,000 stadium venture, has said he would insist on major league hockey being played next winter in his sports palace. But he has failed to buy a team in the National circuit and as the Blackhawks will play in the Coliseum, his friends Tuesday baseball for 10 days. Hartnett, right hander, beat the other, however. He practices daily but tosses them with his left.

WHITE SOX WALLOP CLEVELAND, 10 TO 0

Uhle Holds Browns to Five Hits as Tigers Get 1 to 0 Decision

Cleveland — Al Thomas had the Indians at his mercy while the White Sox were pounding four pitchers for fifteen hits Monday to give Chicago the opening game of the series, 10 to 0.

The visitors scored in six of their nine innings, four errors contributed ing to the run making. The Indians made only seven hits off Thomas. Four of them came in the last two innings.

Batteries — Chicago: Thomas and Autry; Cleveland: Shaute, Holloway, Grant, Holupp, Hunter and Merritt.

BALK BEATS BROWNS

St. Louis — A balk by O'Brien in the first inning, coupled with two singles, gave the Detroit Tigers one run and enabled them to shut out the St. Louis Browns Monday, 1 to 0, in the third game of the series.

Uhle held the Browns to five hits and rose to the emergency in the ninth by striking two men out to end the game after Schuler had doubled and gone to third on a wild

BUNIONEERS POUND OFF 50 MILES TUESDAY

Vandalia, Ill. — (AP) — Patiently plodding toward the west, the 22 Bunioneers in C. C. 12's longest bunion derby resumed their trek Tuesday morning, leaving Vandalia at 7 o'clock with Collinsville, Ill., 50 miles distant, set as their control point for Tuesday night. Sun-blackened despite weeks of inclement weather, the pavement pounders moved on to their final stopping place in Illinois with hope undimmed after 376 miles.

Pete Gavuzzi of Southampton, England, enjoyed a lead of more than four hours over Johnny Salo, a Sausalito, N. J., pouceman and legionnaire, when the variegated collection headed out from Vandalia Tuesday.

Buffalo — James J. Braddock, New Jersey, knocked out Eddie Benson, Florida, (1).

Memphis — Red Herring, Utica, outpointed Jack Britton, (8).

Mobile — Tommy Littleton, Mobile, knocked out Petit Agneau, France, (2).

PESTS CAUSE LOSS OF $38,000,000 YEAR TO POULTRYMEN

FARMER OVERLOOKS TINY PARASITES THAT PREY FLOCKS

Department of Agriculture Experiments to Find Remedy for Scourge

Washington—Hemhouse bandits of the two-legged variety are more pious when it comes to robbing roosts.

Disease and parasites are the real plunderers of the poultryman's profits. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that the losses from mortality in chicks and laying hens amounts to at least $38,000,000 a year, much of which is the result of disease and parasites.

Furthermore, if the habits of these little-known "thieves" were better understood by the farm-flock owner and were attacked with the same degree of diligence with which he wields his trusty old shotgun against the genus homo, much of this loss could be prevented.

Such information is gradually being accumulated by workers of the Federal Department of Agriculture in the same laboratory where the late Dr. B. H. Ransom worked out the life history of the roundworms of swine and developed a "swine sanitation system" which has enabled hog raisers to combat parasites and prevent enormous losses among little pigs.

WOMAN SEEKS REMEDY
Foremost among these "helminthologists" is a young woman, Dr. Eloise B. Cram, who is working out the life histories of numerous worm parasites of poultry preparatory to devising a "prevention system" for that industry. Sanitation is important, but sanitation alone is not enough to control all the parasites that affect poultry, she says.

Dr. Cram has studied and described the life histories of more than 500 parasites of poultry, some of which are new to this country and others new to science.

Within the last year and a half she has found eight new parasites not known to exist before.

Many of these parasites cannot pass from one fowl to another, but spend a part of their life cycle in the body of an "intermediate host," such as an insect. Grasshoppers, snails, flies, ants, slugs, earthworms—all these have been found to help in the life cycle of parasites that affect poultry. They are therefore dangerous playthings to have around the poultry yards.

BIRDS CARRY SCOURGE
"Such intermediate hosts," says Dr. Cram "pick up the eggs of parasites in the droppings of infected fowls and even in those of wild birds and waterfowl. Domestic fowls feeding on such insects are in turn infected, with the result that many die or fail to make the most profit possible for their owners."

Birds that fly from one farm to another are a source of danger to domestic poultry because they have many parasites in common with chickens, geese, turkeys and ducks. Even game birds, such as quail and grouse, are now known to have the same parasites as poultry. Grasshoppers and other insects feeding on the droppings of game birds in the fields may readily infect the domestic flocks that feed on them.

Control measures will have to take all these facts into consideration, Dr. Cram explains. Continued research to learn the habits and life histories of parasites and their hosts will in time make it possible to devise measures of prevention to some extent. At present it is advisable to raise poultry, under screens, out of contact with the ground in some instances and away from contaminated soil.

FARMERS WANT T. B. TESTING STATION

Ask C. of C. to Get Sheds Near C. and N. W. Ry. Stock Yards

A request for a suitable shed and tuberculosis testing station near the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company stock yards has been made by the Outagamie-County Hoofbeats, Breders' association, and aid of Appleton chamber of commerce asked.

In setting forth reasons for the request, the breeders say they must do their testing in a local veterinarian's barns and then drive the cattle over heavily traveled streets to the shipping center. The chamber has asked a member of the breeders' association to meet with the chamber officers and outline wishes of the organization.

TERRACING POOR FARMS ONE BANKER'S HOBBY

Gorman, Tex.—(P)—Ben F. Reed is one bank president who doesn't play golf for recreation. He operates a terracing machine as a hobby.

Reed became an advocate of terracing farm land when he bought a gully washed, worn out section of land. By terracing he transformed it into a productive farm.

Farmers following the banker's plan also have increased the value of their land. Reed has applied his experiment successfully on several farms since his first attempt.

ST. LOUIS PROVIDING HOME FOR DAIRY SHOW

St. Louis—(P)—Three exhibition buildings, costing $2,000,000, to house the national dairy show which will be held here in October, rapidly are nearing completion.

The project embraces 70 acres of ground and when completed 150,000 feet of floor space under patent glass-and-steel roofing will be available for exhibitors.

Seek Means of Fighting Pests

Dr. Eloise B. Cram, "helminthologist" of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, at work studying the life histories of poultry parasites.

Begin Spraying Fruit Trees In Badger Ring

The Badger spray ring, of the Badger school district, the pioneer spray ring of Outagamie-co and thus far the only one, finished applying the dormant spray to the trees in the orchards of all the members on Wednesday.

As an economical move, the ring is divided into two crews for operation of the machine. As soon as one crew finishes its work, the machine is passed on to the other.

This spring the ring changed from dry lime sulphur, which was used last year, to liquid lime sulphur, and the members are very much pleased with the change.

The dormant spray controls all scale pests, Blister Mite, Jose Scale, Oyster Shell Scale, and Bark Louse. Oyster Shell Scale is the pest that is troublesome in this section. One gallon of liquid lime sulphur is used in seven to nine gallons of water. The trunks and all the branches are sprayed with the solution.

By spraying and pruning trees the apple production of the members has been increased over 75 per cent and the quality of the apples has been made equal to that of apples on sale in the grocery stores.

More than that, some of the members have found ready sale for their surplus apples on the farms, one farmer disposing of 500 bushels in this manner, and others selling all they had for sale. The families of all the members have had all the apples needed for home consumption and still have quantities of apples in the cellars in practically as good condition as when they were stored.

Before the spray ring was organized and began operation, the trees blossomed, apples set and conditions each spring looked favorable for a crop. But a short time after the apples set, some of them damaged by pests withered and fell, others grew to some size but punctured by worms they fell early, and later the ground under the trees was covered with the apples that clung to the branches the longest. The trees produced no apples that were fit to offer for sale or to store for home use.

RABBITS DAMAGE NURSERY STOCK

Injuries to Trees and Shrubs Represent Loss of Thousands

Madison—(P)—Easter has passed and the department of agriculture is out of patience with the bunny; who, the melting of Easter's snow revealed, had gnawed several thousand dollars worth of damage into or out of nursery stock and orchards of the state.

"Deep snow covering the ground for considerable period deprived the rabbits of many of their usual sources of food and they were compelled to feed upon the bark and twigs above the snow line," said an announcement from the insect and plant disease control division of the state agriculture department.

"Practically every nursery in the state suffered considerable injury. Nurserymen in south eastern Wisconsin lost entire blocks of apple, poplar, elm, catalpa, maple, sumac and Chinese Cherry consisting of thousands of trees, which had been entirely killed by the rabbits. One nursery alone found three thousand elm and catalpa trees completely killed."

"Nurserymen feel that if the rabbit is to be protected by closed seasons, they should be given adequate protection against the inroads the little beast makes, from the state. Permission to their employees to hunt rabbits on their nursery farms would aid in solving the situation, they maintain."

Some nurserymen are painting the shrubs and small trees with repellent paint or using mechanical protectors, but these lose their value when the snow covers to the top of protection. The department recommended various chemicals and screens for nurserymen.

And J. N. Kavanaugh, Brown county and perhaps others are forwarding announcements of the proposed denials to farmers, and all of them will be ready in a few days to announce the places of the demonstrations and the dates.

WILL DEMONSTRATE FARM SEWER SYSTEM
Truck Will Be Sent Out by Department of Agriculture at Madison

BY W. F. WINSEY
A truck loaded with equipment for demonstrating farm water supply and sewage disposal will tour Wisconsin from May 15 to June 15, says an announcement of the department of agriculture, Madison. Stopping at agricultural engineering colleges of agriculture, Madison. Stopping at day in each place, demonstrations will be made in two or three places in a county.

County agents will select farms where a septic tank is contemplated. The department specialists will visit the site in advance and give directions for digging the pit and specifications for building materials. The farmer furnishes his own material and labor and is to have them ready on the day of the demonstration when the truck gets there with the collapsible wooden forms for the concrete work. The tank is to be all finished by night.

The truck will carry standard specimens of water supply equipment, as well as a new simple feed grinder of interest to dairy farmers. Wisconsin are very much interested in the proposal of the engineering department of the college of agriculture, Gus Sell, Outagamie county,

CHILTON STUDENTS ORGANIZE CHAPTER OF FUTURE FARMERS

Organization Is National and Studies Vocational Farming

Chilton—A chapter of the Future Farmers of America was organized at Chilton high school. George Trimberger was elected president; Leander Heilmann, vice president, and Harold Tollefson, secretary and treasurer.

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization for boys studying vocational agriculture in high school. The boys in Wisconsin have formed their associations affiliated with the above mentioned national organization, the purpose of which is:

1. To promote vocational education in the public schools.
2. To promote interest in the intelligent choice of farm occupations.
3. To create a love of nature.
4. To encourage recreational as well as educational activities.
5. To promote thrift.
6. To encourage cooperation at all times.
7. To promote pride and confidence in the profession of agriculture.
8. To promote scholarships amongst its members.
9. To develop leadership.

OFFER FOUR DEGREES

There are four degrees, as follows: Green Hand, future Farmers State Farmer, and American Farmer. To be eligible for membership a boy must be at least 14 years old and enrolled in a class of vocational agriculture. The Future Farmers degrees is similar to the first, only successful completion of one year in an agricultural class is required, and the boy must have personally earned and banked, or otherwise productively invested, at least $25. He must also be able to recite from memory the Future Farmer's creed.

To qualify for the State Farmer's degree, the boy must have successfully finished two years of his vocational work, earned and productively invested $200, be familiar with parliamentary procedure, lead group discussions and win a place on some team representing the school. He must be able to recite from memory the Future Farmer's creed.

HIGHEST DEGREE

The American Farmer Degree is the highest and one which requires a good deal of accomplishment. To be eligible for this degree the boy must be engaged in farming or have definite plans for becoming a farmer. He must have held office in his state organization or have represented his state in a national contest. Besides this, he must have personally earned and productively invested $500.

FOR BASEBALL TEAM

The agricultural club at the high school has organized a baseball team and is out to show people that the national game has its place amongst farm activities as well as other things pertaining to agriculture.

Noel Wagner is manager and Elmer Endres is team captain. The first game of the season will be played at the fair grounds on Sunday between members of the club as organized under the directed contest. Ervin DeKarske and Herbert Goeldi being the respective captains in this contest.

Organizations looking for competition should get in touch with Mr. Wagner as early as possible, as indications already point toward a heavy schedule.

POINTERS FOR THE EFFICIENT FARMER

A well or spring on the farm may be 150 feet from a source of pollution and on higher ground and still be impure. If the land is porous or if there has been long continued pollution from one plot, water may become contaminated from long distances, particularly in down hill directions.

A well may draw pollution from lower ground, especially when drought and heavy pumping depress the water table enough to reverse the direction of drainage. Only when the surface of water in a well or spring is at a higher level at all times than any nearby sources of pollution is the water pure and safe to drink.

No other plant is known to supply as much grazing for livestock under corn belt conditions as a stand of second season sweet clover. A good stand will provide feed for at least two head of steers per acre from late April through July. It is important to put enough stock on the pasture to keep the clover down; otherwise a second year's growth will blossom, get woody, seed and die.

Worn out pasture in the eastern United States may be rejuvenated by top dressing with liberal amounts of manure or some form of phosphate or basic slag, at the rate of 400 pounds to the acre. Sodium nitrate may be applied at the rate of 125 pounds to the acre and ammonium sulphate at the rate of 100 pounds. Nitrogen fertilizer should be applied in early spring and the phosphates in the late fall or winter.

TEXAN'S HENS BRING PROFIT OF $3.20 EACH
Denison, Tex.—(P)—Fred Morrison turned out cotton farming to make an annual profit of $3.20 from each of his 936 hens.

He bought a flock of chickens when cotton profits began to dwindle. It has cost him only 43 cents to produce each of his layers and last year the net return on their eggs was $3.15.

Morrison hopes to have 1,500 birds by the end of 1929. He also operates a dairy of 20 cows and cultivates 100 acres of land.

HALF CAMPUS IS FARM, BUT NO "AG" IS TAUGHT

Topeka, Kan.—(P)—Washburn college offers no academic courses in farming, yet half its campus is operated as a farm.

The "south 50" of the school's 160-acre campus forms a chicken and stock farm this year. Last year corn was the principal crop. The barn on the farm, which is leased by the school to private farmers, was Washburn's first gymnasium.

PAYS HIS GROCERY BILLS FROM EGGS

Farmer Builds Model House for Chickens and Gets Good Returns

BY W. F. WINSEY
Black Creek—Edward Volkman, route 1, got 112 eggs some days last winter from his flock of 140 White Leghorn pullets. His usual yield was 56 dozen eggs per week for the market besides a dozen each day that was consumed in the residence.

Last winter was the first winter that Mr. Volkman got any more than an odd egg from his flock or ever fed a chicken that paid him for her feed.

Last winter his small flock being industrious paid for all the groceries used in the Volkman home and a balance in cash of $6 per week.

Last winter was the first winter that Mr. Volkman's flock ever produced eggs because it was the first winter the flock was comfortably housed and fed the elements that are lacking in winter and that egg production demands.

To house his flock comfortably, he built a straw left chicken house, designed by engineers of the College of Agriculture, Madison, for housing the farm flock at exceeding low cost, and to feed his flock for egg production he selected the regular Wisconsin ration, recommended by poultry experts of the College of Agriculture.

In the building of his hen house Mr. Volkman used for his guide Circular 184 House, the Hen Efficiently and Economically. In feeding his hens, he used Circular 141, Feeding for Eggs. Both of these circulars may be had by application to the county agent, or to the College of Agriculture, Madison, Wisconsin. Each of these circulars should be in the hands of all poultry raisers in this section of the state.

GRAZING IS POOR UNDER SHADE TREES

Practice of Pasturing Timber Land Also Destructive to Young Trees

Cattle may get a great deal of comfort lying under the shade trees of the farm woodlot, but the grazing they find there is not worth a good cow's time.

Besides, the practice of pasturing timberland is very destructive to the growth of young trees, according to E. G. Wilson, extension forester of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin. The timberlands of the state are producing, at the present time, only one fourth of what they are capable, he maintains. They occupy a quarter of the farm lands and yet yield but three per cent of the income.

Much of the woodland of the state is being grazed, says Wilson. This is a very undesirable situation since the woodlots furnish poor pasture and very little timber growth. The forage value of an acre of open pasture is equal to four acres under the shade of the woods. Ungrazed woodlots will produce ten times as much timber as if they were grazed.

Farmers generally do not realize the loss in pasturing woodlots. Cattle in the woods do damage in a number of ways. They destroy young seedlings and pack the soil preventing new seedling to come up. It is wise plan to protect the timber lots just as a crop of corn or grain is protected by a fence, Wilson suggests. This would prevent the unrestricted grazing and trampling of live stock.

SHIPS CARLOAD OF SURPLUS ALFALFA CROP LAST WEEK
Proves That Farmers Can Raise More Than Enough for Own Needs

BY W. F. WINSEY
Walter E. Wickett, proprietor of the Wickett farms a breeder of purebred Holstein cattle and an extensive raiser of alfalfa and sweet clover, shipped a carload of a large alfalfa surplus from Center Valley on Friday. This shipment proves, as it is the product of an off year for alfalfa in Wisconsin, that farmers of Outagamie county can raise not only enough alfalfa for their stock but also a surplus to put on the market and make a dependable crop of alfalfa. Three tons of ground lime stone per acre and 400 pounds of phosphate per acre spread on the soil on a well drained field will make a sure thing of alfalfa crops for a number of years if good seed is sown. The fertilizers will also produce big crops of corn and big yields of plump grain in the same field.

Mr. Wickett also shipped a carload of baled alfalfa straw from Center Valley on Friday.

As he has sold all his surplus alfalfa, Mr. Wickett says he is now directing farmers who are applying for alfalfa seed to County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh, Green Bay. Mr. Wickett says he could have sold twice as much of this type of alfalfa as he had.

As Velvet Barley yields from 5 to 15 bushels per acre more than ordinary barley there will be no advantage in mixing the pure seed with oats or wheat or any other grain. If it is not mixed, a crop will supply seed for use on the farms for succeeding years. If oats and wheat are needed in a mixture for farm animals, the mixing can be done after threshing more accurately than at seeding time.

The machinery is on the ground, and Mr. Wickett is all ready to begin planting five acres of canning peas. He has purchased a new 15-hp horse power tractor for field and belt purposes and with this and his teams is ready to begin seeding as soon as the weather man says "go."

WHEAT STRAW UTILIZED FOR INSULATION BOARD
St. Joseph, Mo.—(P)—A factory here has purchased 30,000 tons of wheat straw which is being manufactured into insulation board at the rate of 125,000 square feet a day. Prof. O. R. Sweeney, Iowa state college, says that when used in the walls of a building the board saves 25 to 30 per cent in fuel used for heating. Farmers are using it in poultry houses, hog houses and other buildings.

DRY PEAS REMAIN GOOD CASH CROP Profit Continues Despite Price Reduction Throughout State

BY W. F. WINSEY
Green Bay—Despite a reduction in price, dry peas continue as one of the state's profitable cash crops, according to E. J. Delwiche, superintendent of the branch experiment station at Ashland and Sturgeon Bay.

With an average yield of 19 bushels an acre during the past five years, peas at $2.25 a bushel, paid $42.75 an acre, he estimated. This is nearly twice the returns from an acre of oats and 80 per cent more than barley.

An increase in the tariff of dry peas would bring a revival in the state's pea industry, which has shown a marked reduction during the past 10 years, dropping from $6,169 acres in 1919 to 29,000 acres in 1927. Growers have petitioned congress to raise the duty from one cent to two a pound.

"Peas can be grown on all well drained Wisconsin soils, except on light sand, but are best adapted to rich loam and clays," Delwiche said. As essentials of pea growing, he listed well drained land, fall plowed land, a well prepared seed bed, early seeding and plenty of good seed sown at uniform depth.

"Peas should be grown in rotation," he emphasized, "but not oftener than once in four years. In this way it is possible to avoid root disease and to increase yields. When grown in standard Wisconsin rotations, peas add to the fertility of the soil and increase the returns from all crops."

CRUDE PETROLEUM BEST DIP FOR HOGS
Produces Most Satisfactory Results in Ridding Pigs of Lice

Crude petroleum, preferably the unprocessed natural oil, is the most satisfactory dip for ridding hogs of lice and the scurvy or common mange, says Marion Ames of the United States Department of Agriculture. The domestic oil or kerosene is less common but more serious when it does occur, and Doctor Ames says that although frequent dippings in crude petroleum check the progress of the disease, the only course advisable is to kill animals that do not respond to treatment, and to fatten the remainder of the herd for market, disposing of all animals. Then premises should be cleaned and carefully disinfected before making a new start with clean hogs.

Dipping is the most effective method of eliminating lice and mange when they are present in a herd. A wallow made of concrete with shallow water for the hogs is a good preventive. Use clean water, says Doctor Ames, until the hogs are accustomed to the wallow. Then add petroleum for a day or two, and return to clean water. Hand applications, spraying and band olees are less effective than dipping or medicated wallows, but may be necessary in winter when dipping is impracticable. Lime-sulphur dips are somewhat less effective than crude petroleum, and require somewhat more work, as the lime-sulphur solution must be warmed for dipping. The petroleum dip is used at ordinary temperatures.

Farmers' Bulletin 1655-F, Hog Lice and Mange, Methods of Control and Eradication, by Doctor Ames, has been revised and brought up to date, and is now available for free distribution to those interested. It may be obtained free upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. It includes descriptions of the organisms causing the trouble, gives the latest information as to treatments, and includes plans for the construction of economical and effective wallows and dipping vats.

MANY FARMERS GETTING NURSERY STOCK ORDERS

That many farmers in the vicinity are planning to beautify their yards this spring is indicated by the large shipments of nursery stock being received daily for delivery on rural routes of the Appleton post-office. The shipments include fruit and ornamental trees, berry and ornamental bushes and flowers. The rural mail carriers report they are delivering more of this type of stock than ever before.

FINDS LIME HELPS HIS ALFALFA CROP

Gilbert Wehling Is Strong Believer in Commercial Fertilizers

BY W. F. WINSEY
Black Creek—Gilbert Wehling route 1, is one of the first and one of the largest users of commercial fertilizers in his locality.

Last season, he used 18 bags of 2-12-2 on his corn and 2 bags of 4-16-4 on his potatoes. His corn matured considerably earlier than usual on account of the fertilizer but some reason he could not see much difference in the ripening, yield or quality of his potatoes. He treated his cabbage with 0-14-14 fertilizer at the rate of a bag to the acre.

He expects to apply commercial fertilizer to his corn, potatoes and cabbage again this spring, and for that purpose, he has ordered 20 bags of 2-12-2 for corn, two bags of 2-16-8 for potatoes, and will use 4-16-4 on his cabbage.

Mr. Wehling sowed lime on some of his soil two years ago and could see the direct effect of the application on his alfalfa.

This spring he has very good stands of alfalfa in two fields, the one containing 8 acres of pure alfalfa and the other 8 acres of a mixture of timothy and alfalfa. Both of these stands are in excellent condition.

Mr. Wehling has sowed a field of barley and a field of oats. On Friday he was springtoothed another field with a tractor and a three horse team. He will crowd seeding operations now if the weather man does not object.

So Important are Brakes to Safety That Some States Have Passed Laws Requiring Periodic Tests

Heavy traffic and the high rate of speed at which the modern motor car is driven makes perfect brakes a vital necessity. Four wheel brakes have been adopted as standard equipment on most every make of car in order to cope with these changing conditions. But even four wheel brakes—when out of adjustment—do not furnish the necessary braking for emergencies. That's why periodic testing of four wheel as well as two wheel brakes is today an absolute necessity. That's why you should take advantage of Milhaupt Spring & Auto Company's free new scientific brake testing service.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"Look, Don, that's the kind of dress I had in mind."

Capitalist Wins Hearts Of Folk After 30 Years

Stearns, Ky.—(P)—Thirty years of labor by William A. Kinne, land and industrial supervisor of the Stearns Coal and Lumber company and founder of the town of Stearns, Ky., have brought their reward in the form of a new home.

Thirty years ago I came to the southern highlands from my home in Ludington, Mich.," Mr. Kinne says. "I found a suspicious, reserved and clannish people who would have little association with me. Today, I feel that I am welcome in every home over a wide section of the rugged hill country of southern Kentucky and northern Tennessee."

Mr. Kinne, who talks little of his achievements in building up an industrial empire of 108,000 acres in five counties of Kentucky and Tennessee, giving employment to 2,500 persons with a monthly payroll of $80,000, says the early attitude of the rugged hill country of southern Kentucky and northern Tennessee was "These honest people," Mr. Kinne points out, "often had been victimized by strangers. I determined in all my dealings that I would never deceive or take advantage of them. If I was to succeed in making extensive purchases of their rich coal and timber lands, I must have their good will and I knew this depended on fair dealing."

Thus, Mr. Kinne's word became "as good as his bond." As a result, his advice is accepted without question, for in carrying out his purchases he has always given the mountaineer every cent their lands were worth, or a little bit more. Many of these men have become independent, if not wealthy, and have attained the mountaineer's supreme desire—a home in a house beside the pike.

One of these was "Uncle Louis" Bell, who sold his 700 acres for approximately $1,100. With the proceeds he bought a farm with a stone house facing the highway and built a private race track. This is now one of the most valuable farms in the section.

Kinne has not always had easy sailing. In 1907 coal miners at the Stearns plant went on a strike. The labor dispute grew very bitter and a United States deputy marshal was shot to death.

In this crisis Mr. Kinne determined to stick to the mountain people as far as possible. A leader in the mine workers' union offered to import a large force of alien miners to break the strike. Kinne refused the offer. The strike was soon settled and there has been no more trouble in the Stearns mines, where hundreds of the sons of the mountaineers are employed.

As a result of his loyalty to these people, Mr. Kinne now is "folks" to them, a term of adoption and the greatest compliment a Kentucky mountaineer can pay an outsider. He still loads his saddle bags with "parties" for the children and they watch as anxiously for him as the children of 20 years ago did when he made similar trips.

The Height of Cleverness In An Advertisement

Is To SELL The Public Not To Make The Office Force Say "Great"

Years ago this writer was requested, by a prospective client, to give his opinion of which was the better of two ads.

One advertisement embodied everything the average person would claim as marking the Perfect Production.

It was clever, sparkling, and amusing. Merely reading it, discouraged him with his own future as a writer. "For surely," he thought, "with such clever people in the field against me, what chance have I to succeed?"

The second advertisement had little on the surface to commend it. In the language of today, it looked a total loss.

All it did was to picture the article it exploited, and then went on to list its "selling points"—more like a descriptive newspaper item than an advertisement.

The advertiser, canny in the business of selling to the thousands, thanked him for his misguided choice and said: "Your picking this ad tells me everything that I want to know—unfortunately, however, the second ad brought in exactly thirteen times as many orders as the first."

The lesson this teaches is worth thousands of dollars to any young man entering the advertising field.

That is, that the height of cleverness in an ad is to make it SELL goods. Not to entertain or win applause, but to GET THE MONEY.

Advertisements, with the ability to Get The Money frequently don't look that way. Unhappily, the least productive, most clever appearing ads, often look like the surest winners.

White space in which to print advertising costs money. The idea in buying it is to make the money thus spent make money.

The seasoned advertising writer views the white space from that standpoint. The only applause that intrigues him are orders from the trade . . . orders based on consumer demand from the public.

Thus he struggles not to "attract", but to SELL. Not to win a cheer, but an order. He leaves the field of "clever writing" to Will Rogers, Ring Lardner, Irving Cobb, John Erskine, and other writers whose business it is to entertain—not to sell.

When you buy space to print a message to the thousands, set your mind on sales—forget what a fine writer you are and play for the pocketbook. That's good advice to any advertising writer.

BE LOYAL TO YOUR CHEESE FACTORIES, FARMERS ARE TOLD

500 Attend Meeting of Producers' Federation at Forest Junction

BY W. F. WINSEY

Forest Junction — Five hundred people attended the get-together meeting of the National Cheese Producers' Federation in Community Hall here Monday evening, one of the largest gatherings of the kind ever held in this locality. The program was so well planned that at least some parts of it appealed especially to each person in the audience. Federation speakers instructed the older people in federation principles and history and trained school children entertained the younger element with music, drills and recitation.

Gus Brickbauer, president of the federation, made a strong appeal to the farmers to forsake their present methods and to do their business as a unit, according to the pattern supplied by business men.

F. G. Swoboda, fieldman of the federation, gave the history of the federation from its organization down to the present time and enumerated the services that it has performed for farmers in the organization and out of it.

Instrumental music was furnished by Verron Kungliger and his son, Donald. The former entertained with violin, the latter accompanying with piano music.

MAKERS AWARD PRIZES
As a result of producing fancy cheese in their factories in the Forest Junction district, Herman Chm., Verron Kungliger and Erwin Koepsel, cheesemakers, were awarded prizes in the form of clocks by the federation.

In awarding the prizes, Mr. Swoboda said: "If all the cheesemakers in the federation produced as good cheese as these three men are producing throughout the year, vastly more cheese would be consumed and the farmers would get from one to two cents a pound more for their cheese than they are now getting."

"Awarding prizes to cheesemakers for turning out a quality product is a special feature of federation methods. It has developed into a unique contest for the benefit of the cheesemaker who turns out a quality product even at the cost of being 'kissed' by some of the patrons of his factory."

"Cheese must score 85 per cent or better to win a prize. Three of the four cheesemakers in this community have qualified to receive prizes."

Community singing of patriotic and federation songs in which pupils of the school took the lead was one of the features of the program.

The local committee that had charge of the meeting were a teachers committee consisting of Helen Flatley and Laura Wildenberg; a farmers committee, consisting of John Seybold, Charles Schaefer, and H. L. Bastian; and a cheesemakers' committee composed of Herman Chm., Verron Kungliger, and Edwin Koepsel.

Pictures representing federation affairs were thrown on a screen and explained by Mr. Swoboda as the last member of the platform program.

She Testifies

"If a girl doesn't drink these days you can bet she is not wanted in a party," testified 19-year-old Virginia Graf, above, of Chicago, at a coroner's inquest the other day. The inquest followed a roadhouse party which resulted in an auto crash and the death of one of the party.

Dancing and lunch closed the exercises.

FARMERS MUST UNITE

In commenting on the Forest Junction meeting, Mr. Swoboda said that it was one of a new type and that one of the same kind would be held in each district of the federation. He said that heretofore the arrangement of federation meetings a mistake had been made in not extending invitations to the women and children. If the women understood the principles of the federation they will be able to hold him in line when he loses heart and begins to waver. If the children are taught the meaning and advantages of cooperation, the future of the National Cheese Producers' Federation will be secure.

"A great disturbance is apparent all over the country among cheese factories, creameries and milk plants," said Mr. Brickbauer. The fellows that are going about among these plants and offering patrons inducements to leave their own plants and to deal with the corporations on the grounds of the patrons becoming rich in a few years, are only 'kidding'."

"If farmers are to succeed they must unite in marketing organizations of their own, adopt the methods of the business man, turn out a quality product, set their own price, and sell cooperatively."

He advised all farmers to remain with their cheese factory organization as the most effective means of their financial safety.

John Seybold acted as chairman of the meeting. Before introducing the numbers, he gave the audience a hearty welcome and said that the purpose of the meeting was enjoyment and a good time.

FRIENDS PAY HIGH TRIBUTE TO FORMER LAW SCHOOL DEAN

Funeral Services for Harry S. Richards Will Be Held Wednesday Afternoon

Madison — (AP)—Funeral services for Harry S. Richards, dean of the University of Wisconsin law school, will be held in Grace Episcopal church here at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon under direction of the Rev. H. H. Lumpkin.

Dean Richards died suddenly in Boston Sunday, while attending a meeting of a legal study committee. Classes at the university will be dismissed Wednesday out of respect to the law school head.

Friends, co-workers in the university, and law colleagues paid high tribute on learning of the death of Dean Richards.

Among the eulogies: Marvin M. Rosenberry, chief justice of the Wisconsin supreme court — "Dean Richards aroused on the part of those who knew him best a feeling of genuine admiration and affection. He was an outstanding figure in legal education in this country. In a literal sense he gave his life to the cause he loved, and died while on a mission for the advancement of law. He was a scholar of recognized attainment, although his work as an administrator no doubt obscured and to some extent hindered his achievements in that field. Personally he was a most estimable and lovable character, fond of the outdoors, optimistic, enthusiastic and a delightful companion."

Glenn Frank, president of the University — "A profound sorrow has fallen on the University of Wisconsin in the death of Dean Harry S. Richards. He had served the University as dean of its law school for 26 years. The tradition of his scholarship, his service and his spirit will remain permanently to enrich the life of the University. His scholarship brought him to a position of authority in his field. Death found him at a task of legal re-assessment and restatement to which his profession had called a group of its most distinguished minds. A man for whom we felt a genuine affection has left us."

Prof. C. K. Leith, chairman of the university, department of geology, and intimate friend — "I feel a deep personal loss. Few men have possessed his happy combination of wide knowledge of affairs, shrewd judgment and common sense, a dry humor which lighted up his pointed comments on current affairs, and back of it all a spirit of kindness and fairness."

Prof. W. H. Page, of the law school — "The death is a terrible loss to the law school, to the association of American law schools, and to the cause of legal education generally. His unselfish devotion, sincerity, earnestness and great ability, made him one of the leaders in the advancement of legal education. The position of Wisconsin's law school is due chiefly to his introduction of modern methods of law teaching and to his unrelenting toil."

Amateur Collector's Museum Attracts Many

Prairie du Sac — (AP)—Memories of the days when Ringling Brothers circus winter quarters at Baraboo were a counter attraction to the Wisconsin delis at Kilbourn, live in the shed of E. D. Ochsner, beekeeper, dog fancier, taxidermist, hunter and nature lover here. Two sheds at the rear of his home are filled, first with deer heads he is preserving and mounting for hunters, and second with stuffed animals and birds, many from the Ringling circus.

"One of the Ringlings was a collector of rare woods," said Mr. Ochsner, conducting a visitor through his museum recently. "He gave me that mountain" pointing to the double head of a calf, born near Prairie du Sac, and mounted on a red wood looking like colored curly maple.

Mr. Ochsner has so many articles of curiosity crowded into his two small sheds that walking through them is difficult. There is the sacred ox of India, presented from the Ringling winter quarters, where it died. There is a circus cobra, apparently dead these many years, because its body has started to rot. Scales that once shined as the reptile graced the shoulders of some fair snake charmer.

There is the baby leopard, big headed and big boned, as are the cubs of many wild and domestic animals according to Mr. Ochsner. He has mounted it in a characteristic pose. A sea lion, long gone from his small sea in a circus wagon, is dusty and flat on the floor of the cabin. Its offspring, once glossy-coated, now occupies a high, dry shelf, where the years add to the greyness of its back.

Many other foreign animals and birds, presented to the taxidermist by the great circus before it moved from Wisconsin, occupy the walls, floors and cases of the dusty little woodshed museum.

When he is not busy with his bees in the Baraboo hills, across the picturesque river, Mr. Ochsner mounts the heads and horns of deer killed by Wisconsin hunters. The other shed is literally filled with these heads, some waiting for their owners, others for sale by the taxidermist. The tools of his trade are in this shed, along with many mounted birds and small animals. Black squirrels, gay-plumed ring-necked Chinese pheasants, bald, two funereal loons, odd-looking in their regularly designed black and white feather coats, and scores of other birds and beasts are in the two sheds.

The taxidermist's other interests are bird study and dog raising. In a kennel that extends the length of his two-acre lots, Mr. Ochsner raises wire-haired fox terriers, doberman pinschers, and Skye terriers, his kennels being devoted mostly to the first named dogs.

Madison — (AP)—Robert, son of former Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, is a full-time employee of the state banking department.

He started working there Feb. 1, although no announcement has come from the department of his employment. He found he needed only a small amount of academic work to graduate from Madison Central high school in June. He took the full time position and is working outside of office hours for his diploma.

State bank department employees are exempt from the civil service, so young Zimmerman was not asked to
